Edmonton Man Charged

Guard Murdered, Jets Dynamited

EDMONTON (CP) — A German immigrant was charged with capital murder in the shooting of a night guard at an aircraft factory where two American jets were destroyed and a third heavily damaged by dynamite and fire.

Harry W. Hubach, 36, was remanded to Feb. 5 when he appeared in city police court on the charge.

He was arrested by a score of policemen who fanned out across the industrial airport after the body of guard Theron J. Richardson, 45, was found in a guard house at the main gate to Northwest Industries Limited.

FOUND IN TRUCK

Police said Hubach, who worked several weeks for the company about seven years ago before he left to accept a better job, was found in a truck six blocks from the southwest corner of the airfield.

The airfield, surrounded by residential districts, is 1½ miles from the downtown area. The factory is located at the field.

An 18-year-old youth was held in custody on a charge of vagrancy after being found in the airport district. He was to appear in court at 2 p.m. MSP today.

BOUND, GAGGED

C. D. Reekie, executive vice-president of Northwest Industries, said in an announcement that Mr. Richardson was bound and gagged and then shot.

"Dynamite and fuses were attached to two aircraft on the tarmac outside Hangar 14 and fires were set under them," Mr. Reekie said. "The two jet aircraft were almost completely destroyed and a third showed signs of fire damage."

TIED TO FOUR

"Until a complete assessment can be made of the damage the full extent of the losses can only be surmised."

Police said dynamite was attached to four jets but detonated only on three. "The charge set on another for some reason did not go off," they said.

They said a rifle found near the guard house had been fired several times.

Richardson, the father of two children, was a member of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners which patrolled the plant under contract to Northwest Industries.

The jets were among 112 being overhauled by Northwest.

Sabotaged Jets Jinxed from Start

EDMONTON (UPI) — The three F-84 American jets sabotaged here early Thursday, were tinged with ill luck since the beginning of their scheduled overhaul.

While they were sitting in Saigon awaiting transport to this continent, the U.S.S. Card, an aircraft ferry ship of the military sea transport service which was to have brought them to Canada, was sunk in the harbor there.

The aircraft finally were brought aboard the U.S. transport service carrier Core last June, to Vancouver, where they were dismantled and shipped to Edmonton by rail.

The damaged craft are reportedly insured for $1,000,000 each.

About Missing Mafia Boss

Dorion Orders Mystery Letter Filed

MONTREAL (CP) — Chief Justice Frederic Dorion ordered again Thursday that a mystery letter about a missing Mafia boss be filed with the inquiry he heads.

The letter is a vital piece of evidence in the testimony of Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay. Denis is alleged to have offered a $20,000 bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne. Denis told the inquiry that the letter was written to Liberal MP Guy Rouleau by Raymond Daoust, a lawyer for Joseph (Bananas) Bonanno, a Mafia figure who left Canada July 30 after a vain attempt to gain Canadian citizenship.

Denis said he was shown this "personal and confidential" letter July 11 or 12 by Mr. Rouleau, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson. The letter concerned Mr. Daoust's request to Mr. Tremblay for bail for Bonanno, he said.

Denis said this letter prompted him to summon Mr. Lamontagne to Ottawa July 14 on short notice to discuss the Bonanno case.

Mr. Lamontagne has said while there was discussion of the Bonanno case the evening of July 14, Denis had offered him $20,000 to agree to the release on bail of Lucien Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on conspiracy charges in a huge dope-smuggling racket.

Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the Canadian government in the Bonanno case and for the U.S. government in the Rivard extradition hearings.

Yves Fortier, counsel for Mr. Lamontagne, suggested before the inquiry Dec. 23 the mystery letter doesn't exist and that the bid for bail for Bonanno wasn't made by letter until July 16, two days after Denis called Mr. Lamontagne to Ottawa.

Mr. Tremblay testified Dec. 23.

Freezing Boy Rapped in Vain

PUNNICHY, Sask. (CP) — An eight-year-old boy froze to death Wednesday night on the steps of a house he had left 3½ hours previously to start for home, RCMP said Thursday night.

Arthur Blair Dufour of Punichy was discovered by George Belrose, 12, and Eileen Belrose, 14, about 9:30 as the brother and sister returned from a visit to the community of about 450 some 85 miles northeast of Regina. Temperatures dipped to 36 below zero Wednesday night.

RCMP said Mrs. Bella Belrose heard noises at the door and was aware of her dogs howling, but she refused to open the door because she was afraid a man might be trying to harm her.

Mrs. Belrose is separated from her husband.

RCMP Const. J. R. Nickel said the Dufour boy broke a window in the Belrose home as he attempted to gain entrance. Const. Nickel said the boy's knuckles were skinned where he had rapped repeatedly on the door.

Young Dufour went to the Belrose home with George Belrose directly after school Wednesday and also spent Tuesday night at the Belrose home.

After he was summoned with Dr. G. W. Sykes by George Belrose, Const. Nickel said he traced the path travelled by young Dufour about 400 yards in the direction of his home, about three-quarters of a mile away.

A track, leading back to the Belrose home, showed the boy wandered off a travelled path several times within 300 yards of the house. He walked out of a boot at one point, Const. Nickel said. One foot was bare when the boy was found. The constable said an autopsy established death occurred about 50 minutes before the boy was discovered.

Relief Hopes Dimmed

CIVIC POVERTY IS 'HOT AIR'

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Hopes of further provincial government assistance to municipalities in the coming year diminished sharply in the legislature Thursday night.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the reeves and mayors know that B.C. municipalities are better treated than those elsewhere in Canada.

DIFFERENT VIEW

And when they are outside the province's borders they admit this fact, Mr. Campbell said, though at home most tend to take a very different and rather narrow political view.

Mr. Campbell told the House that "the whole diatribe" against the provincial government's aid-to-municipalities program was what he termed "straight political hot air."

Campbell

He said nobody on the opposition benches was willing to accept his challenge to produce cost-sharing formulas from other provinces, which if adopted here, would provide greater assistance to B.C. municipalities.

BETTER OFF

B.C. mayors and reeves attending a national convention in Regina last summer dropped their "narrow political" views when faced with the problems of the rest of Canada.

He said B.C. municipalities were better off for these reasons:

● Total revenue surpluses of B.C. municipalities last year amounted to $17,400,000.

● During a period when B.C. municipalities' share of school taxes increased 3.4 times the provincial government's contribution to education costs rose 4.3 fold.

● Nowhere else in North America did so many municipalities have so many sewer and water projects on a self-liquidating basis and with provincial-guaranteed loans to boot.

● Nowhere else in North America were municipalities able to finance so many capital projects out of reserve and surplus funds.

Mountie Knifed, Four Held

SALMON ARM (CP) — Four juveniles were arrested Thursday after the stabbing of RCMP Cpl. John Lawson, 33.

Police said Cpl. Lawson was stabbed in the back earlier in the day while transporting four juvenile robbery suspects here from Tappen, 10 miles north of this central interior community.

He was reported in good condition in hospital.

Police said two of the four juveniles were charged with breaking and entering and possession of stolen property.

Police said the other two, one a girl, said they were 18 and appeared in an adult court where they were charged. Cpl. Lawson rammed his patrol car into a snowbank and rolled out the door to escape further attack.

Four prisoners commandeered the police car but were captured minutes later by Cpl. Lawson's partner.

Medley Measures Musician's Mettle

—NEW ORLEANS—One of the strangest concerts in the annals of music was played by jazz trumpeter Muggsy Spanier in a hospital this week.

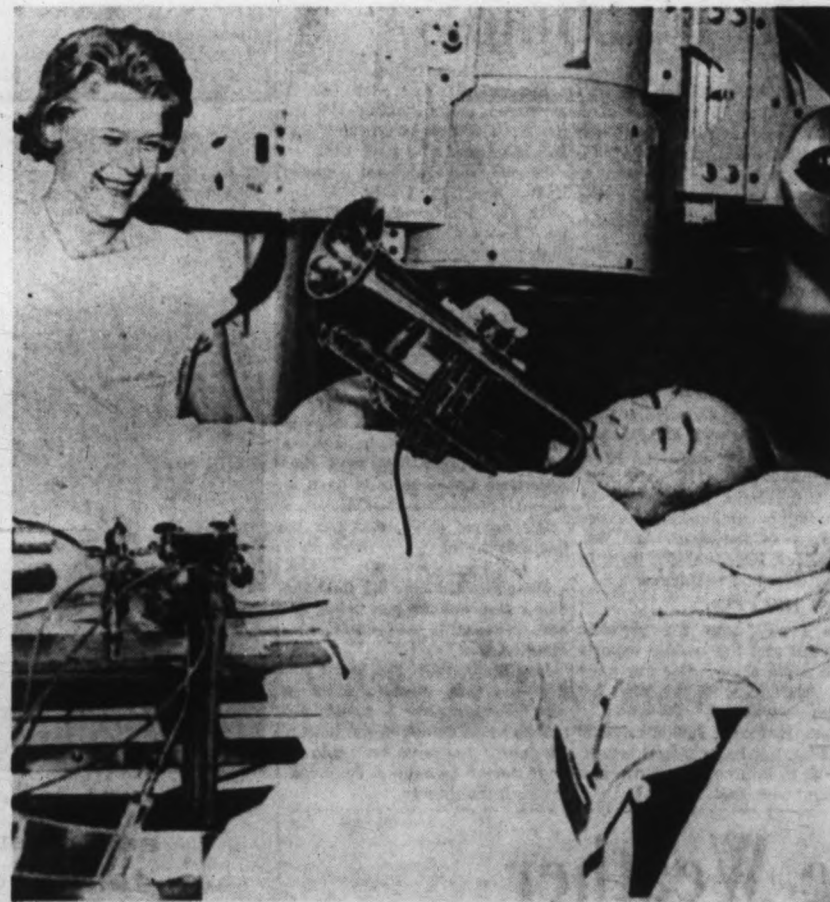

Muggsy, 59, was flat on his back with a long hollow tube running up the vein of one arm all the way to his heart. While surgeons withdrew blood samples to check the pressures around the heart and lungs, Muggsy tore off The Saint Louis Blues, improvised on The Saints Go Marching In and slid into a medley of ancient Dixieland pieces.

He was undergoing a test to see just how much of a strain playing the trumpet really puts on his heart.

The result may tell whether the musician is through as a jazz trumpet man. He collapsed with chest pains seven months ago in Detroit.

Muggsy 'Blowing His Heart Out'

Mystery Letter Ordered

It is he would be surprised if a letter predating the July 16 one from Mr. Donast doesn't exist. He undertook at that time to file with the commission a photograph of it.

Chief Justice Doherty said he wants to see the Donast-Rouleau letter before permitting questions on the legal point of whether Mr. Tremblay has the power to grant bail.

Bonanno entered Canada in May at an obscure Quebec border point, maintaining he was an Arizona businessman. He was charged with perjury for falsely saying he had no criminal record in his application for citizenship. Mr. Donast has said Bonanno left Canada voluntarily. The immigration department says he was expelled.

DISAPPEARS OCT. 11

Bonanno disappeared Oct. 21 from a New York street just before he was to testify before a New York racket grand jury. He has recently been reported in hiding in Sicily, birthplace of the Mafia crime syndicate.

The Bonanno and Rivard cases have been linked because of Denis' testimony that the purpose of his meeting July 11 with Mr. Lamontagne was to discuss the Bonanno affair.

The Dorion inquiry is investigating Mr. Lamontagne's allegations he was offered a bribe by Denis and subjected to political pressure to agree to bail for Rivard, in jail here since his June 19 arrest.

Denis has repeatedly denied in the witness box for the last two days he offered any bribe to Mr. Lamontagne.

Denis said he needed up-to-the-minute information on the Bonanno case, taking place in Montreal, because Mr. Tremblay might be called on to reply to Commons questions.

He conceded under questioning by Mr. Fortier that Mr. Tremblay had never been called upon in the Commons to answer questions about Bonanno at that time.

He also said he hadn't asked Mr. Lamontagne to bring his Bonanno file with him to Ottawa. He said he had to see Mr. Lamontagne personally and couldn't discuss the case on the telephone.

AS EASILY BY PHONE

Mr. Fortier said nothing was discussed on the Bonanno case in the Lamontagne-Denis meeting which couldn't have been handled by telephone.

Denis said he didn't like to discuss points of law on the phone.

Denis said he returned the Donast-Rouleau letter to Mr. Rouleau and hasn't seen it since.

He had an appointment for Mr. Donast to see Mr. Rouleau and himself July 15.

Mr. Tremblay said Dec. 22 Denis and Mr. Donast met in Mr. Rouleau's Commons office July 15 but that he didn't know whether Mr. Rouleau, scheduled to testify later before the inquiry, was there.

DID NOT KNOW

Denis testified he did not know June 22 Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the U.S. government in the Rivard case.

He said he had read about it later in the Montreal Sunday tabloid Dimanche-Matin.

Mr. Fortier filed copies of the paper from June 21 to July 12 and said the only one reporting Mr. Lamontagne's connection with the Rivard case was dated Sunday, June 21.

A recess was granted to permit Denis time to read the newspapers filed. Later, he agreed with Mr. Fortier the only account about Mr. Lamontagne's connection with the Rivard case was in the June 21 edition.

NEITHER KNEW

Denis testified that neither he nor Guy Masson, self-described Liberal organizer, knew about Mr. Lamontagne's position on June 22 when they met at midnight in a hotel, Que., motel suite to discuss the Rivard case and other matters.

Denis has denied Masson's testimony that Masson told him $50,000 would go to the Liberal party's campaign fund if Rivard's extradition were blocked.

Denis testified that he was questioned by the RCMP Aug. 19, had told Justice Minister Paveau about it the next day, and asked him "as a son to a father" to inform Mr. Tremblay.

NEVER TOLD ABOUT IT

He said Mr. Paveau never told Mr. Tremblay about it.

He said he obtained a copy of his official statement to the RCMP from Inspector J. P. Drapeau and took it to his summer cottage the last weekend in August where Masson was his guest.

He said he showed the statement to Masson, who was not questioned by the RCMP until a week or so later.

Denis said his statement mentioned neither Liberal campaign funds nor the party treasurer in Quebec, Senator Louis P. Gelin.

Mr. Fortier said it must have been pure coincidence, then, that eight days later Masson's statement to the RCMP made no reference to party funds or Senator Gelin.

CALLED FOR OPINION

Guy Guerin, counsel for Denis, jumped in to say that this called for an opinion by the witness.

At another point, Denis said he organized a dinner meeting of executive assistants to federal cabinet ministers at which Masson and another friend were present. The friend had picked up the tab.

To the best of his knowledge, he said, he hadn't attended himself.

He said that once before he had organized a similar dinner meeting of executive assistants at the request of a member of Parliament who had attended.

Neither the MP nor the friend was identified.

Denis continues his testimony today.

under a $1,000,000 contract won last July. All four involved in the incident Thursday were awaiting repairs.

Police said they believe the shooting occurred at 3:15 a.m. and no attempt was made to enter the main company plant. A department of national defence information officer said city police asked the army to send an expert to deal with the explosives.

An authoritative source said 12 sticks of dynamite were attached to a fourth jet with a fuse and another 180 to 200 sticks and more fuses were found in the trunk of a car abandoned near the plant.

It was believed the dynamite, in two bundles of six sticks, was strapped to the damaged jet and detonated with a fuse that burned at the rate of one foot every 40 seconds. This gave the bomber time to reach safety.

TRACKING DOGS

Hibuch was arrested after police and tracking dogs gave chase to a man seen leaving the plant by a worker in the administration building tower at the airport. The man was cornered and arrested by a score of police about 20 blocks from the plant.

Police said they believe the shooting occurred about 3:15 a.m. MST. They added that it was "a while" before the first policeman reached the scene.

Larry Leddy, an employee of Edmonton Caterers at the airports, said he heard three sounds which he first thought were footsteps on the roof of the building where he works.

"I thought it was strange and called police. A car arrived while I was talking to the policeman at the police station. The officers in the car said they had heard sounds that sounded like explosions."

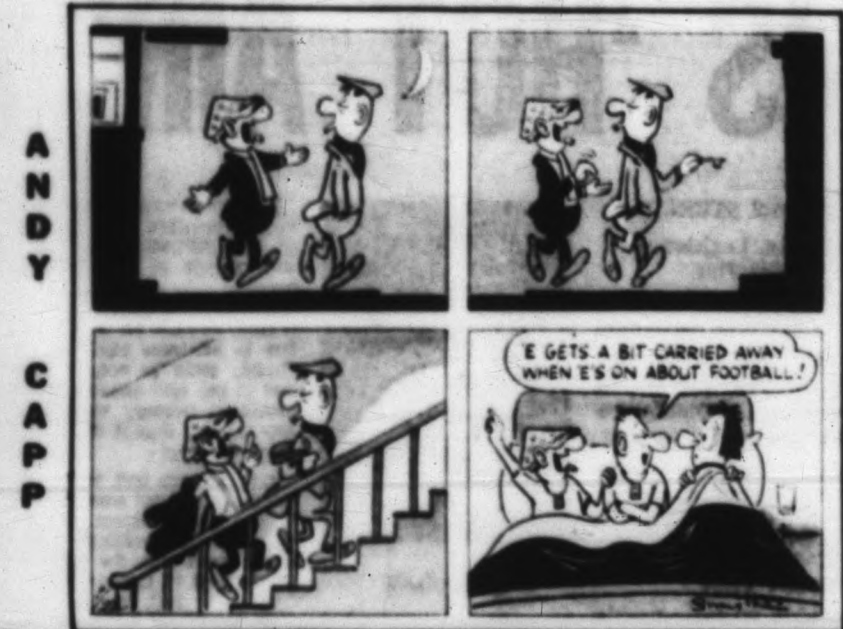

FAMILY GONE
He searched the hangar where I worked and then got a call and rushed over to Northwest Industries."

Hibuch has worked as a farm laborer in the Edmonton district during the last year. His wife and four children returned to Germany a year ago.

WANTED DOG
Mr. Richardson, who worked alone, had a premonition something was going to happen, said his wife. She said:

"Just last week he told me that he had found a tight burning in that lonely big building, that he knew he had turned out just a while before. He wanted so much to have a German shepherd dog with him. He just knew something was going to happen."

Northwest Industries last year became the first firm outside the United States to win a contract for overhaul of American jets. It added about 100 craftsmen to its regular employment rolls of 250 to handle the $1,000,000 contract.

Two Schools of Thought Try to Undo Flabbiness

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 50 and my chin and neck are starting to look flabby. Can you help?

My physical culturist teaches that you should twist and stretch neck muscles to tone them up. However, some beauty experts advise against exercising the neck, claiming that one should avoid stretching the skin, but that proper carriage of the head in time will eliminate some of the droop.

These two schools sound contradictory. Which in your opinion is more apt to be helpful?

Mrs. V. R.

Both kinds of advisers have to make their living, and naturally try to convince people that they have methods that will undo the flabbiness.

TOE, TEXTURE
Some events we just have to accept. After 40 or so, the tone of the skin changes. So does the fibrous tissue under the skin. That's what leads to wrinkling, flabbiness and droop.

Another factor is that the texture of skin varies with people. We can't do much about that.

For still another, if we put on extra weight and later (wisely) lose it, we have also stretched the skin and then let it sag when the fat departs. Early in life, this is tolerable. The skin is elastic. Later it doesn't snap back to its original tautness.

CAN'T UNDO FLAB

As for exercise (while I approve of it in reasonable doses), I doubt very much if this can make the muscles bulge and undo the flabbiness of the skin. But conversely, I have the most vigorous doubts that any neck exercises would stretch the skin.

Exercise, besides keeping you limber and feeling fit, won't have much to do with your skin. But it will help you along in developing or maintaining proper carriage of the head. And yes, that does improve the lines of neck, bust and shoulders.

BOTH HELPFUL

So I say both the physical culturist and the beauty experts have some things that are helpful. The trick is to sort out which is which.

Exercise? Yes. It won't stretch the skin, but its principal benefit will be in improving posture and making you feel better.

For unduly dry skin (which wrinkles faster) massage creams into it. This won't help overnight, but it may in the long run.

Second, develop good posture, if you haven't already. Third, appropriate earrings, necklaces and necklines can help distract attention from wrinkles or sag. As we get older, we all have to accept a certain amount of such problems.

Why, come to think of it, I've developed a few wrinkles myself!

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who won't eat a banana until, after peeling it, he scrapes off a thin layer. He says that otherwise the banana is hard to digest. Is this true?—C.K.

It's an old fable, and has no basis in truth.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has a skin cancer just below his eye. Should it be removed?—MRS. A.H.

Definitely, yes. I'm sorry you took the time even to write to me. When cancer is found, the quicker it is removed the better. Obviously you have been told by your doctor to have it removed. Do so immediately.

Frozen Siberian Brought to Life

LONDON (Reuters)—A young Siberian worker frozen solid has been brought back to life, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Thursday.

Tass said Vasily Maslov lost his way in a forest during a heavy frost and his frozen body was found 10 hours later.

WARM BATH

He was brought to the Novosibirsk city hospital where he was put into a warm bath, had oxygen pumped into his lungs from a special apparatus through a tube in his throat and was given drugs to help to re-establish the activity of the heart.

After five hours the first signs of life were noticed, Tass said. The temperature rose, the heart began to beat more strongly and his pulse was felt.

Finally, Maslov breathed and his lungs started working, the agency reported.

Man Who Faced Invasion Dies in Paris at 98

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Maxime Weygand, 98, former commanding general of French armies during the Nazi invasion of France in 1940, died Thursday.

The aged general fell and broke his hip Jan. 20, eve of his 98th birthday. The accident occurred in Weygand's apartment overlooking Avenue Friedland near the Arc de Triomphe in the heart of Paris.

Weygand lived quietly there, going out only rarely. He died in the apartment, apparently of complications from the fall.

NOT PREPARED

The general was completely lucid in mind until the end, although his hearing was failing and his hands were stiffened with rheumatism.

The one-time chief of staff to Marshal Ferdinand Foch during the First World War was called to command all French armed forces in May, 1940, as Nazi panzer divisions were racing toward Paris.

Commenting on the disaster of 1940, Weygand later said that he had not been prepared to face the reality that France had not adequately prepared itself for that kind of blitzkrieg warfare.

Johnson Asks for Speed On Succession System

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to approve at once two constitutional amendments on presidential disability and vice-presidential succession and on abolition of the electoral college.

In a special message, Johnson endorsed a pending amendment to permit the president to fill a vice-presidential vacancy and to establish procedures to enable the vice-president to take over when the president is incapacitated.

In addition, he submitted a suggested amendment to abolish the presidential electoral college as it now stands but retain the present system of state electoral votes. Voters would vote directly for president and vice-president instead of for electors.

In some instances, electors have cast votes for the presidency for someone other than the person for whom they were chosen to vote.

One widespread recurring form of discomfort is what is commonly called backache. One frequent cause of backache can be traced to sluggish kidney action. This condition often may result in irritation of the urinary system, followed by backache and tired feeling.

Closed Courts?

PRIME MINISTER HAROLD WILSON'S new Labour government has announced that it will introduce a bill which, if it becomes law, will ban reports of any evidence in criminal cases during preliminary magistrates' hearings.

Under the proposed bill, which is based on recommendations of the Tucker committee, nothing may be published in the newspapers apart from the accused's name, the charge and the court's decision. Only if the magistrates decide there is no need for the case to go to a higher court will the press be allowed to give a full account of the hearing.

The main reasoning behind this suggested restriction is that reports of proceedings before an examining magistrate might prejudice the accused's trial before a jury later. However, even the committee itself admits that this is only supposition.

Understandably, British newspapers see such a move as a threat to freedom of the press which itself is but part of the greater freedom of all men to speak openly and without fear.

Magistrates' courts are open courts—open to any member of the public. It has fallen largely to the press to represent the public at all hearings before them. If this privilege is now denied, then it is not simply the freedom of the press which has been threatened but the freedom of the people as a whole. It will, in fact, be the first step toward establishing closed courts, the institution of which has ever been anathema of true democracy.

Nor is it the press alone which speaks out against the proposed legislation. The Lord Chief Justice of the United Kingdom, Lord Parker, said this recently: "I have always advocated the greatest publicity for criminal proceedings. The idea that the jury at a trial is influenced by what it reads in the papers is overdone."

This is the view of Lord Denning, Master of the Rolls: "Newspaper reporters attend court to represent the public and see that everything is rightly done."

The famous constitutionalist, Henry Hallam, once put forward this principle: "Publicity of judicial proceedings ranks even higher than the rights of Parliament as a guarantee of public security."

It will soon rest upon the elected members of Britain's Parliament to decide whether the bill constitutes a violation of one of the major principles of democratic freedom; whether, in fact, the open court is fundamental to British justice.

Less Than More

MAYBE IT'S ANOTHER horrible example of gobbledegook being used by bureaucratic officialdom. Maybe, although we would like to think not, it's a case of over-compressed reporting. It's the sort of wording one dreads to find in government regulations or on income-tax forms and the like. "It" being a recommendation of the Civil Service Federation of Canada in a brief to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, according to an account from Ottawa, that "civil servants and employees in industry be required to speak English and French if either language is spoken by up to at least 50 per cent of the public served."

How much, for goodness' sake, is "up to" one-half "at least"? And is there any location in Canada where more than 50 per cent of the population does not speak either English or French? Or where the other linguistic component is not "up to"—presumably meaning less than—50 per cent?

The only interpretation that can be placed on this remarkable piece of puzzle is that the federation is calling for English-French bilingualism in the civil service and industry everywhere in Canada.

Such a proposition one can scarcely credit, however. The desirability of a knowledge of both languages by many workers in contact with the public is clear where a substantial portion of the populace—say even five or ten per cent—cannot understand or speak the prevailing tongue well enough to get along.

But it surely would be little short of ridiculous to suggest that bilingualism should be a requirement for industrial or government employment across the whole country, and this we are sure up to 99 per cent of civil servants, at the very least, would acknowledge.

Affluent Chairs

THE CENTENNIAL SQUARE development is a matter of pride for most Victorians, but not apparently for Mr. Waldo Skillings, one of the local MLAs. He takes a dim view of the appurtenances of civic government provided therein.

The mayor has a more amply furnished office than the premier, for instance, which surely is up to the latter for correction. The aldermen have a room apiece and committee room chairs costing $85 each; which, incidentally, will probably have to last for 85 years.

It was the purpose of the new civic headquarters to replace in fitting and dignified fashion the long outmoded and shabby City Hall of ancient vintage, an accomplishment splendidly done by renovation and addition, and to the satisfaction of the local ratepayers who recognized the necessity and backed it wholeheartedly.

The point of Mr. Skillings' harangue, of course, was to allege the "affluence" of municipalities and the generosity of the Sacred government towards them which, he apparently thinks, don't require the provincial aid they legitimately seek. The hard-pressed civic taxpayers viewing the boasted affluence of the provincial government will not agree with him.

This same government, even if properly enough, is about to embark on a large-scale building program to enhance its own administrative headquarters at a cost that will make the City Hall pale into comparative insignificance. And in addition preparing to dump into local laps a bus system that will by such unjustified action still further enlarge the millions of profit its Hydro agency piles up.

There is perhaps another angle to Mr. Skillings' ill-suited remarks. A touch of sour grapes, possibly. His own mayoralty ambitions some years ago did not materialize, and had it been otherwise he might have viewed the new city hall development with different eyes. He might then even have secured an $85 chair to sit on himself.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax"

By TOM TAYLOR

TWO things above all perhaps were intimately associated with the Churchillian visible image—the famous V sign and the equally famous cigar.

And without the latter the great man would not really have been recognized; the "Havana" seemed always to be with him.

And all through the war his cigars came unfurling from Cuba in the needed quantity.

How this supply began is revealed as an intriguing item of Churchilliana by Mr. H. A. Chisholm, a Victoria resident who represented Canadian interests in Cuba, Latin America and the Far East for some 20 years.

And who as a member of a golfing foursome was one of the originators of Cuba's "Churchill Cigar Fund."

Shortly after the war, in 1946, Sir Winston journeyed to Fulton, Mo., where he delivered his famous "iron curtain" speech. From there he went to Havana for the purpose of thanking personally the many residents of Cuba who, as he put it, "conspired together" to keep him supplied with Cuba's most fragrant product during the war.

The "conspiracy," relates Mr. Chisholm, commenced the day after Churchill was summoned to become prime minister in 1940. That afternoon the atmosphere at the "19th hole" of the Country Club of Havana was cheerful and confident as it had not been since the war started. The Cuban members as well as the American, Spanish, British and others joined in toasts to the success and health of Winston Churchill.

Then someone shouted: "How about his cigars?"

Immediately Cuba's leading cigar manufacturer, a Spaniard, saying "Let's be practical," started a list of subscribers on the club bulletin board for a "Churchill Cigar Fund" with the contents of his purse—over $100. Within a matter of minutes several thousand dollars were subscribed. Next day the first shipment by the Churchill Cigar Fund of Havana was on its way to London.

Elsewhere in Cuba additional Churchill cigar funds were established, with the result that the great war leader was assured of an ample supply of the finest cigars Cuba could produce.

In 1946, as soon as Churchill arrived in Havana he went directly to the residence of the British Embassy accompanied by Mrs. Churchill. Arrangements had been made for a large garden party at the Embassy, attended by Mr. Chisholm, so that the illustrious visitor would have an opportunity of saying a few words to the assembled guests.

In thanking those who had made it possible for him to have an assured supply of his favorite cigars during the war, Churchill concluded (with tears rolling down his cheeks, recalls Mr. Chisholm), with these words:

"To those who so generously refer to my efforts I have been privileged to make towards the ultimate victory, I would say in all sincerity that I do not believe it would have been possible for me to carry on without the solace provided to me by those incomparable Havana cigars."

So it was that the cigar was never absent during the blood, toil, tears and sweat of the nation Churchill led with transcendent lustre.

I am indebted to Mr. Chisholm for this interesting account of Cuba's "Churchill Cigar Fund."

The 285-ton schooner Bluenose, famed Nova Scotia-built queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleet and racing vessel, sank 19 years ago today—in 1946—after striking a reef off Haiti. The vessel's graceful lines have been commemorated on the back of the Canadian 10-cent coin. A replica of the Bluenose was launched in Nova Scotia, July 24, 1963.

1856—The Victoria Cross, the highest military decoration, was established by royal warrant.

First World War—Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Russians reported advances against Austro-German forces in the Carpathians and the capture of more than 2,400 men; Allied airmen, on the Western Front, bombed enemy positions at Soissons, Laon and Le Fere.

Second World War—Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Premier Daladier of France warned his people to prepare for total warfare which "may soon break out"; German planes were reported to be unsuccessful in an attack on British shipping along 400 miles of the east coast; Russian planes dropped 1,000 bombs on Finnish cities, while the Finns reported they had killed 1,200 Soviet troops in an abortive flanking movement.

Ottawa Offbeat

Successful on Two Fronts

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IN a cabinet besieged by collective imaginations, its members beset by individual difficulties, Health Minister Judy LaMarsh emerges as one of the few favored by fortune.

Somehow she has managed to pull off the political trick of the year.

In one of the really sticky situations confronting her as health minister, she has it both ways, coming and going, and unbelievably finds herself pleasing all concerned in the cigarette smoking controversy.

When offering herself as the shining example of "How-to-quit-smoking-and-enjoy-it," she was in peril of offending the tobacco industry and alienating the voters of the several thousand workers in its factories, its hundreds of farm workers in Ontario, Quebec and more recently the Mar-times, and countless smoke-shop and cigarette stand operators all across the country.

Having launched her anti-cigarette campaign, she then scarcely could abandon it without offending much of the scientific and medical profession, the academic community, social and youth workers, and those most vocal of all zealots, the "reformers" who quit smoking and then want to convert everybody else.

From all the evidence, politically she could only lose, no matter—almost—what happened.

But what did happen was totally unpredictable and, for Miss Judy, exceedingly fortunate. For she won both ways. Fewer people smoked. But the few smoked more.

In what they called an "ash tray survey," the health department and the statistics bureau discovered to their amazement that fewer Canadians were smoking less of more cigarettes.

Now get that: FEWER people smoking LESS of MORE. What was happening, they found in further careful checks, was that the older and long-confirmed smokers were lighting up more but throwing them away after fewer puffs.

The tobacco industry was reassured: production and, more important, consumption increased.

The anti-tobacco crusaders, the medical profession, the academic community and the social services were pleased: smoking was restricted more and more to the unrefined "ineurables," and fewer and fewer teenagers.

Shameful

We would herein like to express support of a reduction in bus rates for our elderly citizens.

The old age pensioners are the foundation of our country and at this stage of life deserve to be shown the respect, not only of their family, but also of their country.

Elderly and retired people want to and should maintain an active interest in life but to do this they must be able to travel independently from home to their destination.

The majority of the old age pensioners no longer drive due to declining eyesight and slowing reactions therefore they are dependent on bus transportation.

Is it not shameful to offer a $1 handout per month when a reduced rate would allow them, the pensioners, to maintain the dignity so vital to us all?

Surely a province as bountiful as B.C. can find another means by which to supplement road funds.

Commonwealth Festival

Canada to Fore

By THOMAS LAND from London

THE FIRST Commonwealth Arts Festival, which is to take place simultaneously in four British cities between September 16 and October 2, will be dominated by Canadians.

Ian Hunter, the festival director-general, told me that the full program will not be available until the spring. But the identity of the Canadian artists—the largest group to participate in the international event—may be released in the near future.

According to present arrangements, Canada will send a symphony orchestra, theatre and ballet companies, a folk-song group and a large number of individual artists.

The festival will be held in London, Cardiff, Liverpool and Glasgow. Detailed programs are expected to be released in March and bookings may open as early as mid-May.

All member nations of the Commonwealth will take part in the festival, which is designed to illustrate the similarities and differences among the various cultures in the organization.

Hunter has now visited nearly all Commonwealth countries and reports widespread enthusiasm for the project—particularly in the newly independent nations.

"All the Commonwealth governments have given us moral and financial support," he said. During his Canadian tour last and young adults were lighting up.

Seldom, in such a crusade that shakes a big and important industry, do all concerned emerge satisfied and smiling.

It was just about a year ago that United States Surgeon General Luther L. Terry filed his industry-rocking "Report on Smoking."

Tobacco stocks tumbled. In panic, cigarette were butted across the continent.

Here in the national capital, the schools staged a symbolic bonfire, fueled by students tossing their fags to the flames and swearing off for life.

Withdrawal symptoms, dry mouth, short temper and palsied hands were the crosses of thousands.

In one federal departmental headquarters office building, penalty boxes were installed to raise funds from the fines of smoking back-sliders for the Canadian Cancer Society.

The swearing-off kick lasted perhaps six months, and by last August DES labor statistics reported the cigarette factories back to two shifts to fill depleted warehouse stocks.

While the health department was waging its quiet war on smoking, the agriculture department was running in direct opposition.

It pushed its campaign to take tobacco growing to the Maritimes, cutting Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in on the income from smoking previously enjoyed exclusively by a relatively few skilled and industrious farmers in Ontario's sun-belt along Lake Erie's shores and even fewer growers along the warm edges of Lakes Ontario and Huron.

Both departments, well content, continue about their tobacco business, health to restrict it, agriculture to spread it.

And lucky for La Judy, all concerned believe they are winning: the tobacco farmers and cigarette manufacturers, with consumption up among fewer smokers, and the forces of medicine and education with more people smoking less or not at all.

For Judy, it has been the trick of the year.

Washington Calling

Vital Questions

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE power of the presidency are defined in the U.S. Constitution in one page—the official big-type edition of 1963. Out of that tiny acorn has grown the enormous structure that President Johnson now in his own right begins to govern.

On how a president uses the powers of the great federal structure so much depends. In the nuclear age it is hardly an exaggeration to say that on this use—wise, indifferent, reckless—turns the life or death of whole nations.

Long since it has been clear that this president's approach is intensely personal. He can moralize about institutions. But when it comes to getting things done, "trying, probing, failing, resting and trying again," institutions play little part in his thinking. As a personal president his use of the telephone has given him a reach beyond personal presidents in the past.

Looking at the brand this Texan means to put on the years ahead two vitally important questions are yet to be answered. What will be the restraints—self-restraints or otherwise—on his personal use of power? And will he in his intensely personal and demanding temperament be able to draw around him and make essential use of independent experts?

For, however great the political capacities of the man in the chief executive's chair—and no one doubts that LBJ's capacities are of the first order—he cannot govern without a body of trusted experts with relative independence of judgment. That is plain in the debate of the political sciences on the powers of the presidency.

Presidential power has been at times dangerously personalized. Professor Edward S. Corwin of Princeton wrote in his searching study—"The President, Office and Powers"—and this in two senses: first, that the leadership that it affords was dependent altogether on the accident of personality, against which our haphazard method of selecting presidents offers no guarantee; and, secondly, that there is no governmental body that could be relied on to give the president independent advice and that he was nevertheless bound to consult.

In LBJ's case, Franklin Roosevelt, Professor Corwin saw personalized government carried to an extreme degree. He rated Roosevelt with Lincoln as presidents who had used personal authority in unprecedented fashion.

But even Corwin with his concern over personalizing the office was willing to concede that Dwight Eisenhower's moves in the opposite direction failed. Eisenhower had the chief-staff concept. He believed he could institutionalize the office and delegate wide authority to subordinates who would operate under a broad command principle.

As another authority on presidential power, Richard E. Neustadt, has noted, Eisenhower was an amateur at politics. He brought to the office almost none of the knowledge and experience that a chief executive with a wide-ranging commission must have.

"But if one wants effective policy from the American system," Neustadt writes in his book—"Presidential Power"—"danger does not lie in our dependence on a MAN: it lies in our capacity to make ourselves depend on a man who is inexperienced. Any human judgment is worth fearing nowadays, but save for this the expert is a boon. His expertise assures a contribution to the system and it naturally commits him to proceed within the system. The system, after all, is what he knows. The danger lies in men who do not know it."

Granted that Mr. Johnson is situated in "the system" as few others, this is an optimistic view. Yet the theorists could hardly have foreseen the present moment in the aftermath of the disaster to the Republican Party.

That disaster began with the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater, which was the climax of the capture of large sections of the Republican party by the fatalistic right. If we really believe what we have professed for so long, a strong party of opposition is essential to the working of the democratic process. That is what is lacking today—the challenging tension of a valid opposition.

In the past this has been one source of restraint on a president's powers. Often it has been merely obstructionism. But again it has produced the kind of debate resulting in reasonable and moderate policy decisions.

Justice Holmes once characterized FDR as a "second-rate intellect but a first-rate temperament." Neustadt observes that this may be a necessary combination, since government rarely deals kindly with men whom intellectuals regard as first-rate intellects. Given his driving temperament and his bred-in-the-bone knowledge of the system Mr. Johnson will hopefully use his great powers with wise restraint.

Tarnish on Dynamo?

By IAN STREET

There's been a lot of talk in the past few days about the tarnished side of the dynamic society.

Most of it, naturally, has come from the opposition benches. But there has been telling evidence that all is not well in our society, too, from the various official reports of government departments tabled in the legislature.

Mr. Strachan, the leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition, has made great political capital out of "in-cup medicare" and the fact, as he says, that B.C. is the only place in the free world where a man has to show his welfare card before getting a job.

Both he and Mr. Perrault have heaped scorn on the extra $1 a month for needy pensioners, and, to be frank, so far this doesn't look a very promising start to the premier's vaunted dynamic society.

But we'll have to wait until Feb. 5, when Mr. Bennett lays down the cards in his budget hand.

CAPITAL REPORT

There will be record revenues in the up-coming budget as all sectors of the provincial economy continue to boom.

Only a passing reference, however, will be made to the fact that in the 18 months ending last September the people of this province spent almost $178,000,000 on liquor. That's something over $5 a month for every man, woman and child in B.C.

In the midst of apparent plenty, the over-all cost of social assistance in the province was up 6.6 per cent last year.

Last year there were more children in care of welfare agencies in the province, more children born out of wedlock, and a general increase in social welfare needs.

This is what Miss Mary King, who retired recently as superintendent of child welfare in B.C., calls a contradiction in our society which is hard to define.

This is how she puts it in the department's annual report: "On the one hand we have relative material affluence and on the other an increase in serious social ills such as divorce, desertion, temporary marital relationships, child abuse, delinquency, a lowering of age and increase in the illegitimacy rate, threatening family life and healthy childhood growth."

Miss King adds: "Never have we had so much knowledge in the social sciences, so many resources available to us in the areas of health, education, social services and culture, and yet never before has society felt so anxious, insecure, and threatened."

Many parents are failing today, says Miss King, who could have cared satisfactorily for their children in less turbulent and stressful times. It is the responsibility of the whole community to preserve and strengthen family life.

That means money, of course, lots of it, for all branches of social welfare.

But, as Miss King points out, the cost will not be nearly as high as that of dealing with the results of broken homes, placing unwanted children, coping with delinquents and the emotionally disturbed.

Prevention rather than cure.

Top-Level Mourner

Proud Giant to Pay Tribute

By DOUG MARSHALL

Towering physically and historically above the other heads of state mourning Churchill in London Saturday will be Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

In the absence of top-level representatives from Russia and the United States, the French president, who stands six feet four inches, will be the only man there whose stature and place in history can be compared with those of Churchill.

De Gaulle has been forced to wait a long time for his mantle of greatness. During the Second World War he was the poor country-cousin of the Allied cause, a leader without a country, struggling off humiliation with a bravado display of obstinate pride.

He was also a pain in the neck to Churchill, who once remarked the greatest cross he had to bear was the Cross of Lorraine—the symbol of de Gaulle's Free French forces.

But de Gaulle has made it clear that he is coming to London to pay tribute to the British wartime leader he once distrusted so much. There will be no political discussions with Prime Minister Wilson.

The reason for this homage can be found in de Gaulle's memoirs. He wrote of Churchill: "In spite of everything this one essential and ineffaceable fact remained that, without him, my effort would have been futile from the beginning and by giving me a strong helping hand he helped the fortunes of France."

Now, at 74, the last of the four leaders that directed the Allied war effort has reached

Moonshine Bonanza In Quebec

OTTAWA — Quebec's liquor store strike has turned into a bonanza for moonshiners, RCMP sources say.

The retail price of illegally produced liquor, which can be diluted, three to one, has gone to $45 a gallon from $25.

The officers were commenting on a case in Ottawa court Thursday in which Lucien Perreault, 45, was convicted of possessing illegal spirits. He was fined $100 and his 1963 car was seized.

RCMP investigators said they found five gallons of alcohol in the trunk of Perreault's car Wednesday. Another seven gallons were seized at his Ottawa home.

They said the alcohol came from the Montreal area, where operators of stills are producing enough moonshine to keep up to the Quebec demand and also ship significant quantities to Ontario.

Since the Quebec liquor store strike began in December, 11 stills have been raided in the Montreal area, and RCMP investigators believe another two dozen are operating.

Slayer Paroled —Is This Safe?

By R. J. CHILDREHOSE

In 1959, a 16-year-old magazine salesman named Michael Brady stabbed an elderly Toronto spinster 73 times with an ice pick.

Brady was found not guilty of murder by reason of insanity and committed to the Ontario Hospital at Penetang.

Now, five years later, Michael Brady is being released from custody to meld once more with a society that has no guarantee that he won't run amok again.

Is this safe?

Less than two years ago parolee Leopold Dion sexually assaulted then murdered four Quebec City boys to prevent them from telling.

Dion had been sentenced to life imprisonment in 1940 for rape with violence. He was paroled in 1956. A month later he was arrested for a homosexual act and sent to Kingston.

While in Kingston, Dion studied English and Spanish, wrote part of a novel and used the prison library to educate himself on Freud.

He further impressed officials by becoming a skilled woodworker, metalworker and mechanic.

Dion convinced the authorities that he was a good parole risk and on Sept. 28, 1962, he was again released and allowed to return to Quebec City.

Prior to murdering the four boys (ages 9 to 13) in early 1963, Dion sexually molested "20 or 21" other children.

Dion is still being held on stay of execution pending hearing of appeal Feb. 19.

With this in mind, the public has a right to question the releasing of Michael Brady.

B.C. Booth Popular

The B.C. government and ferry booth at the Travel and Sports Show in Los Angeles is one of the most popular booths in the fair. Ald. G. I. Edgelow reported from the California city Wednesday night.

the peak of his career. British and U.S. diplomats sometimes find it a cold and unapproachable peak. But it is not one that can be ignored.

In rupturing the late president Kennedy's grand design for the Atlantic Alliance and vetoing Britain's effort to join the European Common Market, de Gaulle has at times seemed on the verge of isolating France and wrecking the Alliance.

At times de Gaulle's enigmatic and mystic policies, the empty grandeur of his force of frappe, have seemed to Anglo-Saxon eyes to be bordering on the ridiculous.

But the fact remains that he has been the architect of a modern political and industrial renaissance in France and the uncannily accurate prophet of the forces at work in the new Europe.

Even Britons, still smarting from the Common Market fiasco, are beginning to concede that some of the general's arguments have the ring of truth.

Columnist John Grigg, writing in the Manchester Guardian, warns by ignoring de Gaulle today Britain may be making the same mistake it made when it ostracized Churchill in the 1930s.

"If we fail once again to follow the light of true greatness while it is blazing in our midst, we shall suffer a disaster less violent but perhaps more far-reaching in its effects than that which befell us in 1940."

Self-Confessed Bandit Remanded for Sentence

Toy pistol bandit Geoffrey Moore Huddart of Toronto pleaded guilty Thursday in city magistrate's court to the armed robbery Aug. 8 of two American women guests in the Empress Hotel.

Huddart, arrested in Toronto earlier this week, was remanded until Feb. 5 for sentence.

Det. Lester Clark of Victoria city police told the court he had been called Aug. 8 to room 312 of the hotel, where he found Mrs. L. P. Kissinger and Julia Yates, both of Florida, in an upset condition.

The sum of about $30 had been stolen from Mrs. Kissinger's handbag by a man who entered the room, held the women up at gunpoint, and slapped them.

GAVE HIMSELF UP

Following a telephone call Tuesday from Toronto Metropolitan police, Det. Clark spoke with Huddart, who said he had given himself up for the crime of his own accord.

In a voluntary statement, Huddart said he had robbed the women with a toy pistol bought earlier from Eaton's department store, downtown Victoria. Afterward he dropped the pistol down a stair well of the hotel.

Huddart admitted striking the women, Det. Clark said.

NO RECORD

Asking Magistrate William Ostler if he might say a word on behalf of Huddart, Det. Clark said there was no police record of his ever having been in trouble in his home town of Toronto.

Remanding Huddart, the magistrate said to him: "I want to find out more about you before passing sentence."

James Onischuk, 20, of 550 Alpha, was jailed for three months for assault occasioning bodily harm to the father of a girl friend Jan. 20.

He also received a concurrent one-month sentence for carrying a spring-knife.

At Onischuk's trial last week it was stated he had punched Albert A. Bishop, 47, of 3250 Shelley, in Mr. Bishop's home after the man had asked him to leave.

Mr. Bishop, whose 18-year-old daughter Onischuk had been dating, was carrying a five-month-old baby at the time of the attack.

PUNCHED, KICKED

After replacing the baby in a playpen, the father once more asked the youth to leave. Onischuk thereupon punched him five times in the face and kicked him when he fell to the floor.

Mr. Bishop was treated in hospital for face and chest injuries.

Brian Roberts, Onischuk's defence counsel, summoned two character witnesses on the youth's behalf, both of whom testified he was of good general reputation.

One, Harry Burling, 1724 St. Anne, manager of a firm where Onischuk had been working as a warehouse employee, said the firm was willing to have the youth return to work immediately.

UNDER INFLUENCE

Mr. Roberts described the attack as out of character. Onischuk had been under the influence of alcohol at the time.

He asked that Onischuk be put on two years' probation, ordered not to drink and also to stay away from the Bishop home.

Magistrate Ostler told Onischuk his conduct on the occasion had been incomprehensible.

The youth had committed "a vicious and sustained attack" on Mr. Bishop.

He was unable to accept Mr. Roberts' plea for a probationary sentence, the magistrate added.

Larry Preston of 3920 Quadra, charged last week with unlawful possession of explosives, pleaded not guilty to the charge Thursday in Saanich court.

Preston was remanded until Feb. 16 for trial. Bail of $1,000 was continued.

Magistrate Ostler twice warned Thursday that the courts must not be used lightly by plaintiffs.

The warnings followed applications for withdrawal of charges by Robert Graham, 851 Short, and Mrs. Sandra Slater, 2862A Sooke, who had preferred common assault charges against each other, and by John Chipperfield, 1071 Tattersall, who had preferred an assault charge against his brother Cyril.

The magistrate allowed the applications, but pointed out that once charges had been laid they were no longer a matter of private, but of public interest. In the case of Mrs. Slater and Mr. Graham, he ordered each to pay $5 costs.

New Building For Telescope

Tenders have been called for a building to house a 16-inch telescope presented to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory two years ago by amateur astronomer Robert Evans.

"The new building will have a roof which will roll away," said Dr. Graham Odgers. "The present building is too small for the photo-electric equipment required to be used with the telescope. We hope to have it working this summer."

Leather Car Licence Found in Garage

A 1913 leather licence plate is part of a find by Victoria antique car restorers working in a McClure Street garage.

Also found in the same corner of the building were 1914 and 1915 British Columbia licence plates.

According to records, they belonged to W. G. Cameron, one of the former proprietors of the Cameron Lumber Mill on Gorge Road.

The plates were found at 1162 McClure by Chris and Rick Morgan and Sandy McMillan, who are using the building in a project to rebuild an old car.

School Board Kills Motion To Lower Flags in Tribute

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) —

A motion to have flags over Roman Catholic schools in Sherbrooke lowered to half mast in tribute to the late Sir Winston Churchill was defeated by the city's Catholic School Board.

Board member William Steele who had put forward the motion but found no seconder, called the British wartime leader the world's greatest statesman and said: "We might be slaves to day if it had not been for Churchill."

But Michel Marengo, another member, said the question of who was the world's greatest statesman would be hard to settle.

"Don't be surprised if you see the flag lowered on St. Patrick High School," Mr. Steele said after the defeat of his motion, referring to Sherbrooke's English-language boys' high school. The flag which would be lowered would be the Quebec fleur-de-lis, he said, since it was the only one the board provided.

Fledgling Arts Society Plans Vital Meeting

Victoria's fledgling Bastion Village Arts and Crafts Society will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Music Room of the public library, said co-chairman Kenneth B. Barnes Thursday.

On the agenda is distribution of application forms for space in the proposed Bastion Square arts and crafts building. The society was formed to organize details of the centre.

"It's an important meeting to us because we have to submit a unified, composite proposal to the city so they can decide whether we merit having the building turned over to us," said Mr. Barnes.

The building committee of the 80-member society will also report on a city-sponsored tour of the Bastion building.

Hospital To Expand

Handicapped Victorians will have new therapy facilities at their disposal by mid-summer if Gorge Road Hospital building plans develop as expected.

Administrator W. E. Morrison said Thursday tenders will be called immediately on a 7,000-square-foot addition, to include a hydrotherapy pool, an occupational therapy centre and a gymnasium.

Negotiations have been resumed in the dispute between lumber inspectors and the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau which threatened to tie up B.C.'s lumber industry.

A four-hour meeting was held in Vancouver Wednesday and negotiators will meet again at 10 a.m. today.

"Things look good," said Rod Beaton, president of lumber inspectors' Local 1-288, International Woodworkers of America.

Inspectors' Dispute

Lumber Talks Resume

The talks were the first since Dec. 23 and were sparked by deputy labor minister William Sands, who assigned conciliation officer E. P. Fisher to the dispute.

A government supervised vote Monday showed 90 per cent of the 276 inspectors were in favor of strike action.

Inspectors are objecting to a company proposal to lease the official stamp now under control of the inspectors to mills.

The stamp designates the grade of processed lumber. They say this would cost the inspectors their jobs and allow mills to control the grade.

Fourth Historic High

NEW YORK (AP)—A powerful thrust by selected blue chips Thursday pushed stock market averages to their fourth straight session of historic highs and put the Dow Jones industrial average above 900 for the first time at the close.

It was far from a unanimous advance among the important stock groups. Steels were unchanged to lower. All big three auto stocks declined. General Motors losing $\frac{1}{2}$ despite its third straight record year for profits.

Walker Gooderham closed up $\frac{1}{4}$ to lead Canadian issues. Canadian Pacific was up $\frac{1}{4}$. McIntyre Porcupine was up $\frac{1}{4}$ and Hudson Bay Mining was up $\frac{1}{4}$. Aluminum Ltd. was down $\frac{1}{4}$.

MONTREAL (CP)—Utilities and Industrials gained but papers were off in moderate trading Thursday on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

B.C. Forest Products and Calgary Power each gained $\frac{1}{4}$ to 31 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 21 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Russian Icebreaker Clears Canadian Way

MOSCOW (CP) — The Russians are taking steps to see that a second Soviet ship in a new winter cargo service to Montreal doesn't get stuck in St. Lawrence River ice.

The second vessel to make the run is reported to be accompanied by its own icebreaker. The first, the Volkhovets, entered Montreal Jan. 4 but got stuck in ice as it attempted later to make its way back down the river.

Big Percentage Rejected

Tests Show District Cars Not in Very Good Shape

By AL ARNASON

A mobile test station has proved Greater Victoria cars are in worse shape than most people think.

A three-man motor vehicle testing operation that checked the cars of 561 volunteers in Saanich rejected 332 as defective in one way or another. That is a startling 74 per cent.

In Esquimalt, the testing operation snuffed out 195 rejected cars from among the 243 tested. Only 40 per cent failed in Esquimalt.

According to statistics compiled by Glenn Barter of the Motor Vehicles Branch, the biggest single reason for rejection was faulty or badly aligned headlights. This fault caused rejection for 366 cars in Saanich and 66 in Esquimalt.

With the Saanich figures first, the remaining rejections were: Wheel alignment—55-22; turn signals—27-5; brakes—42-10; parking brakes—26-4; exhaust and muffler—27-11; steering—16-3; stop lights—35-5; windows—22-6; licence plate lights

Strike End Likely Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said Thursday night he expects a quick settlement of the 18-day East Coast and Gulf of Mexico dock strike, with a return to work of 60,000 longshoremen by the first of next week.

At a press conference, Wirtz declined to say whether he had been in touch with the various closed ports.

For Towboatmen

Board Proposes Series of Raises

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal conciliation board has recommended five successive wage increases totalling 43 cents an hour over a three-year contract to settle a dispute between the B.C. Towboat Owners' Association and two unions.

Involved in the dispute over wages and other matters were 350 unlicensed men belonging to the Local 400 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) and 300 represented by the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

In a majority report, board chairman R. J. S. Moir and association nominee H. G. Cunningham, both of Vancouver, recommended a contract term starting Oct. 1 last and running until Sept. 30, 1967.

It would provide for nine-cent hourly wage increases effective last Oct. 1, on July 1 next, on April 1, 1966, and Jan. 1, 1967, with a final seven-cent-an-hour boost on June 1, 1967. The basic wage of the men involved now is $1.80 an hour.

Car Theft Suspects Include Canadians

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Police expect more arrests in what they described as an international car theft ring operating through the United States from Canada to Central America.

Authorities said the ring was broken with the arrests of seven men.

Charged with transporting stolen cars in foreign commerce were Thomas G. Walsh, 20, Richard F. Milne, 18, and Peter D. Clarke, 24, all of Toronto.

U.S. Commissioner William Costa ordered three other men held as material witnesses. They are Victoria Caffarena, 39, of Houston, Manlio Dagoberto Galindo, 34, of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and William Thomas Wood, 21, of Summerside, P.E.I.

Police said a 22-year-old man also was in custody but had not been charged.

Capt. W. W. Brown, head of the police car theft division, said Milne and Walsh were arrested at a tourist court where the two cars they drove, bearing Canadian licence plates, were found to be stolen.

Chrysler Critical Of Strike Action

WINDSOR (UPI) — Chrysler of Canada, smallest of Canada's big three automakers, lashed out at the United Auto Workers Union Thursday for going ahead with a strike despite a new company offer.

A company statement said Chrysler had "made every reasonable effort to avoid this strike."

"Forty-one meetings were held with the union in an effort to reach a satisfactory agreement," it said. "We regret the unnecessary hardships it im-

WASHINGTON (CP) — More wheat price cuts were announced Thursday by the United States to remain competitive with supplies of French, Australian and Argentine grain.

Officials also forecast that the Canadian wheat board will make small additional cuts in its hard spring wheat classes today to align them more precisely with U.S. export prices. The U.S. move Thursday was another adjustment phase in a cycle begun Monday when Canada trimmed West Coast export prices on lower grades of wheat following a sale of about 27,000,000 bushels to China.

But a U.S. spokesman said that the hope has been expressed to the exporting countries that the price structure now reached can be maintained.

Oil Firm Given Runaround

City council gave with one hand and withheld with the other Thursday in the matter of a highly controversial building permit for another service station in James Bay.

First, council approved issuance of a permit to Standard Oil Company for a service station on three lots at 225 Menzies.

CONTROLS STATIONS

Secondly, it introduced a bylaw which controls service stations and forbids them on that part of Menzies.

Thirdly, it added an amendment to the bylaw which excepts the Menzies Standard Oil site from provisions of the bylaw.

AFTER PASSAGE

Fourthly, it decided to withhold issuance of the building permit until passage of the bylaw.

Fifthly, it set Thursday, Feb. 11, as the date for a public hearing into the provisions of the bylaw.

"It's all very confusing," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Earlier, aldermen were told by City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady that procedure in the handling of the original application from Standard Oil left something to be desired.

When the original application was received, said Mr. O'Grady, council had the right to grant the permit within 30 days or defer the matter for a further 60 days.

This procedure is provided in the Municipal Act.

Instead council did neither. It referred the matter to committee, which did not report back until after the 30 days had elapsed, after which council deferred the application for 60 days.

"It would seem that council has been caught out in a matter of procedure," said Mr. O'Grady. "I would say that the company's position in this instance is the stronger one."

GETTING IMPATIENT

Later, he told aldermen that the company seems to be getting impatient, and that if the matter goes to law, it is possible that the court will issue an order saying that the permit must be issued.

Ald. Millard Mooney, who opposed issuance of the permit, moved that it not be issued, but lost on division. Mayor Wilson cast the deciding vote against the resolution.

A resolution that the permit be granted carried 5 to 3 later in the meeting.

Bakery Drivers Favor Strike

Bread salesmen of McGavin-Toastmaster and Weston Bakeries Ltd. in Victoria—about 60 in all—may go on strike.

The bread truck driver salesmen are members of the Bakery Salesmen's Union—a section of the Teamsters Joint Council—with headquarters in Vancouver, who voted 262 to 1 for a strike.

Results were released Wednesday.

NO DATE SET

The government-supervised strike vote was ordered after rejection of a conciliation board recommendation on wage demands. No date has been set for the strike.

McGavin-Toastmaster brings all its bread for the Victoria area from the mainland, Weston a portion.

A company spokesman said strike action would block shipments to Victoria but other bakeries in the area could supply the demands.

Gas Station Innovation

Single Pump, Store

A gas station without repair service but with an accessory store was proposed by a major oil company, Wednesday for a three-lot corner at Hillside and Shelbourne.

Home Oil Distributors Ltd. in a prospectus to city council, asked for bylaw amendment to allow the 2,700-square-foot accessory store and single pump island for the southeast corner of the intersection.

The plan would be the first of its kind in Victoria, though several are now in operation in Vancouver, said the prospectus.

Elderly Man, Boy Hurt in Accidents

An elderly man and a small boy were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday after being involved in two separate traffic incidents.

The man, 86-year-old Urban W. Holman of 1000 Craigdarroch, suffered bruises after being struck by a car while crossing Courtney near Blanshard at midday.

Mr. Holman, whose condition was described as satisfactory, was being detained overnight in the hospital for observation.

The boy, Gary Pace, 7, of 527 Dumeresq, was riding a bicycle near his home when he became involved in a collision with a car, police said.

After treatment for bruises at St. Joseph's, he was discharged.

Better Than Mayor's Report

Letter Wins Praise For Women Electors

The Association of Women Electors came in for lavish praise for its interest in civic affairs at city council on Thursday.

In a letter to council, the organization said that it was delighted with the civic precinct, Centennial Square, and with the plans for Bastion Square.

The city, the letter pointed out, was particularly fortunate in its special projects department.

The visit of the Quebec mayors was described as a "national highlight."

"This is a fine letter," said Mayor R. B. Wilson. "It is somewhat like the mayor's annual report only better. It's shorter and it says more."

Aldermen Lily Wilson and Millard Mooney agreed that the women electors deserved much credit. They were an asset to the city.

Macbeth in Color Here Next Week

Shakespeare's Macbeth, the classic tale of a Scottish nobleman's road to murder and madness, will unfold in color on a Victoria theatre screen next week during a limited engagement.

The British-made film, starring Maurice Evans as the power-hungry Macbeth and Judith Anderson as his strong-willed, ambitious wife, will play Feb. 1, 2, and 3 at the Odeon Theatre.

The 107-minute film, directed by George Schaefer, will run on a continuous performance basis with five performances a day beginning on the odd hour from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Student matinees (4:45 p.m.) will be seen by a number of local and up-island public school classes, said manager Jack Armstrong.

Eaton's Robbed In Montreal

Tanks Explode In El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Five storage tanks filled with gasoline and commercial gas exploded in towers of flame Thursday and sent dense smoke billowing over El Paso.

Multi-stop city driving calls for CHEVROLET

Says W. M. Browne, Toronto Caretakers, Toronto, Ontario. "We have used panel trucks of various makes for the past 15 years. Nine months ago we put six Chevy-Vans into service and, from our experience with these, we have purchased six more."

"Accurate comparative analysis of our vehicle operation proves Chevy-Vans to be most economical. The six-cylinder engine is really lively with plenty of power. Gas mileage is very good and has given us a substantial saving per unit."

"Manoeuvrability in city traffic is excellent, resulting in reduced time between calls. Mechanically, Chevy-Vans have proved to be first class—we have had no failures."

"In summary, I would say that Chevy-Vans are far superior to any units we have previously operated."

SYDNEY, Australia — Speaker Ray Seppinens Maher, 53, speaker of the New South Wales state Parliament, was sent for trial on a charge of indecent exposure before a jury.

He was accused of having exposed himself before parliamentary typist Miss Elizabeth Shepherd, 36, in the Speaker's room in House of Parliament last Nov. 17.

Before Magistrate A. E. Statham committed Maher for trial, an unexpected move was made to hear a new witness.

Cleve Evans, counsel for Miss Shepherd, asked the magistrate to hear evidence from a second typist, Miss Robyn McCauley, 23. Miss McCauley was mentioned in evidence Wednesday as having warned Maher to be careful of Miss Shepherd "because she is out to make trouble."

CLEVELAND — Doctors removed the left eye of Donna Adams, 7, in a two-hour operation Wednesday. The eye was damaged when her admitted kidnapper, William Richard, 22, fired a blank cartridge from a tear gas pistol at close range. The girl's right eye will be saved.

NEW YORK — Full-color photographs of fully unclothed Carroll Baker in Playboy Magazine have caused the film star "great mental suffering, anguish and distress." That's what attorneys for Miss Baker said in a $1,000,000 damage suit filed in Manhattan supreme court.

NEW YORK — Police have arrested Satan. They said he had narcotics in his possession in a Bronx hotel room. Detectives seized 50 pounds of marijuana worth $15,000 on the illicit market. Charged with possession was Steven Bennett, alias Joe Satan, 26.

GARDENA, Calif. — Thefts stopped at Hugh Cummings' auto wrecking yard when he bought a watch dog to guard the place — a 70-pound doberman pinscher "so vicious," said Cummings, "he even bit me." But the dog started again Tuesday night, Cummings told police. Someone stole the dog.

WASHINGTON — U.S. Air Force Lieut. Gen. Joseph Nazario of the Strategic Air Command has been named to a five-man committee to study the programs of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, following resignation of 65 cadets in a cheating scandal.

LONDON — The Queen Mother, who owns a large string of racehorses, has instructed her trainer to withdraw three which were to have run in races the day of Sir Winston Churchill's funeral.

CANADA'S OWN CAR

Studebaker '65
The common-sense car for women drivers, too

Some men think all women are terrible drivers. But it isn't true. It's just that some cars are more difficult for them to drive than for men. Studebaker isn't.

Here is a car so sensibly built a woman only 5 feet tall can survey all four fenders without sitting on a cushion. No blind right-hand side on Studebaker. And, because it has sensible steering, any woman can make short, sharp parking-lot turns on the very first try. A Studebaker is sensibly-sized at the front (allows more stopping room inside the garage). It's also sensibly-sized at the rear (makes backing into tight spots easy). And it's full-sized in the living-room (carries six adults or a school load of kids).

Studebaker is ideal for shop-and-go driving, too. It's easy on gas, so it doesn't pinch the grocery money. Another thing, the body style doesn't change every year. This will make a lot of sense to your husband when you ask him to get you one.

We know of one other passenger vehicle, a woman can wheel, park and maneuver as deftly as the 1965 Studebaker...

Is Hull Losing Scoring Magic?

Bobby Hull went scoreless for the third straight game last night and time is starting to catch up on him in his effort to break the National Hockey League record of 50 goals he currently shares with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion.

His pointless performance in Chicago Black Hawks' 6-2 defeat of Boston Bruins left him with 37 goals in 45 games and needing 14 scoring shots in his last 25 games to gain the record for himself.

It's still far from an impossible feat, but the accent on defensive play as clubs fight for playoff position, and having made himself a marked man, is rapidly losing him the edge he built up in a brilliant first half of the season.

With 28 goals from his first 28 games and 35 in his first 37 games, Hull appeared all but a cinch to rewrite the record books. But he has beaten opposing goalkeepers only twice in the last eight games, and it hasn't been because the Hawks are in any over-all scoring slump. They have 28 goals during Hull's slump.

HALL SPARKLES

Last night's final margin was no indication of play. The difference actually was veteran for his 60th NHL shutout until his club had a 6-0 lead in the third period.

Ted Green ended Hull's hopes at 9:18 and Murray Oliver beat him again only 29 seconds later, but the veteran had done his job.

With Hull unable to get untracked although Boston goalkeeper Ed Johnston was having a shaky night, Bill Hay took over the offence leadership for the Hawks.

Saints Lead Junior Semi

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver CYO Saints took a one-game lead in the best of three Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League semi-final series Thursday night with a 66-41 victory over Vancouver YMCA.

Victoria Chinooks, who finished first in the eight-team league, play UBC Braves in their semi-final opener in Victoria tonight. Second game is Saturday in Vancouver.

The taller and more aggressive Saints solved YMCA's opening zone defence, then led throughout.

Strengthened by former high school star Ed Suderman, who scored 18 points, CYO picked up a 30-23, half-time lead and dominated the second half without trouble.

Neil Murray, with 15 points, and Roger Kettlewell, with 11, also contributed to CYO's point total.

Howie Mapfl, who left the game in the fourth quarter after five fouls, was top man for YMCA with nine points.

Second game in the best-of-three series will be played here Saturday.

There is a good run of steelhead in the Salmon River and a run of big winter spring salmon has been reported in Esquimalt Harbor.

After a snappy start in December, steelheading often goes through a spotty January and then hits a peak in February. That seems to be the pattern developing this season.

Cowichan River has been good continuously since the middle of December and may now be in a full period during freshets which seem to be building up. But other rivers are starting to get hot.

At Salmon River, 50 miles north of Campbell River, the water is reported just right and among those getting big fish this week was Ray Fontaine, who landed a 19-pounder in a bottom pool.

Fontaine is currently leading his own White River Court steelhead derby—open to any Salmon River angler—but it will likely take a bigger fish to win the trophy.

Other Salmon River catches this week include Johnny Wheelton's 17-pounder and Dick Harding's 16:15-pounder. Anywhere in the river below the log jam has been good and by the weekend steelies should be moving further up the river.

Fontaine reports quite a bit of snow still in the area, but paths are pretty well beaten to the better spots.

Newcomers to the area can fish right at the three bridges which cross the Salmon, or try reaching the river from the side roads between the bridges.

You can also take the Mac-Powell truck road for several miles until you come right beside the river at about Mile 13.

Judging by Victoria weather, we had expected to find up-Island rivers in flood, but reports indicate otherwise. Most are in fine steelheading condition, although the same snow which is holding back the floodwater makes tough slugging to fishing holes.

The Campbell and Quinsam are still producing well and both are expected to improve in February when new runs arrive. Gold River hasn't produced too well, probably because snow shoes are really needed to reach the better spots. Upper Campbell Lake has been giving up two and three-pound trout spinning and float fishing from shore.

Mike Rippingale hit a 17½-pound winter spring off Campbell River this week.

Report from Murray Cree at Qualicum is "there are fish in the Big Qualicum, Little Qualicum and Englishman, but oh, so scarce." Water conditions were perfect mid-week and cutthroats were entering the river mouths.

Puntledge River has been producing and winter springs are being taken by mooching in Comox Bay.

Nanaimo River has been slow, but some nice steelheads have been taken.

Bucky Kennett reports a few fish taken by the White Bridge on the Cowichan Wednesday. The river was up a little and starting to color, but still good fishing.

Bud Dunnett landed a silver bright 12½-pound doe in the Riverbottom area of Cowichan River Wednesday. He reported the river rising and starting to color below the Stoltz picnic area. He said snow conditions in the Riverbottom-Skutz Falls area of the river are still tough, with four feet of snow in some spots. Roads are clear, but side roads are plugged. Parking is difficult and there is a lot of tough slugging to reach the pools.

Sometimes you walk on slippery crust snow with ice underneath. Other times you push through snow up to your hips, he says.

Rainbow trout are being taken at the top end of the river on Strawberry Spins or No. 8 Spin 'n' Glos, or roe.

Saanich Inlet is giving up blues and jacksprings all the way from Goldstream to Tod Inlet. Biggest concentration of grise has been around The Boulder, where small spoon and flasher and from two to eight ounces of weight has been a good combination. Kamlures and fluorescent painted spoons are starting to work well.

If you see them jumping try the bucktail flies.

Quite a few jacksprings have been taken from various points, but the Bamberton side, between the cement plant and the Deep Hole, has been most productive. But go deep, as deep as 350 feet and a planer.

Bob Wright again reports Oak Bay good at the weekend for 20 to 25-pound winter springs off The Gap, right in tight along Cadboro Bay, off the Marina Breakwater and along the kept to Golf Links Point.

Off Victoria Harbor and in Esquimalt Harbor has been reported hot for winter springs and Pedder Bay, Becher and Sooke are well worth trying.

Winter sports anglers off Sooke, Oak Bay have been enjoying the fruits of a winter commercial fishing closure, but that ends this weekend. Monday the commercial boats will be out again and the sports bonanza can be expected to be depleted.

Two Inches From Ace For Gardner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran Gardner Dickinson missed a hole-in-one by two inches Thursday as he wound up in a five-way tie with Jack McGowan, George Archer, Butch Baird and rookie Jack Montgomery for the first-round lead in the $37,500 Lucky International golf tournament.

Each fired a three-under-par 68 over the Harding Park municipal course, a par 36-35 layout extending 6,722 yards.

Dickinson's almost-lucky tee shot came at the 207-yard eighth hole when he hit a No. 3 iron shot which stopped two inches to the right of the cup.

Although 28 golfers shot par 71 or better for the first 18 holes of the 72-hole tournament, the favorites weren't among them.

Top Canadian was George Knudson of Toronto who finished with a 37-34-71.

Among those two strokes behind were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who had a 37-36-73, and Al Balding of Toronto, who also shot a 37-36-73.

Canada Sled Draws No. 9

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (Reuters)—Vic Emery of Montreal, Canada's Olympic gold medalist, Thursday drew starting place No. 9 for the opening run here Saturday of the four-man world bobsled championships.

Britain's top sled, steered by Tony Nash who won the two-man bobsled world title on the same track last weekend, will start 13th.

Fifteen sleds from nine countries will compete for the four-man title over the mile-long track.

The championships consist of four runs—two Saturday and two Sunday. The winner will be the crew with the best aggregate time. The starting order is different for each run.

Canada's No. 2 entry, driven by Lamont Gordon of Harrison, Ont., drew 12th position.

United Coach Confident 'We'll Beat Columbus'

By ROBIN JEFFREY
"Columbus has a good soccer team, but we'll beat them Saturday all right," Victoria United coach Frank Grealy said gaily.

Vancouver Columbus and United have been involved in some extra-curricular debating recently over the Vancouver club's failure to appear for a scheduled Pacific Coast Soccer League game here two weeks ago. The Vancouver team missed the ferry at Tsawwassen. The PCSL executive Wednesday fined Columbus manager Pete Mainardi $50 for negligence, ordered the Italian club to pay United's expenses which amounted to about $60, and stipulated that the game will be played at the end of the season.

WORTH PRICE

But Victoria isn't satisfied. United maintains Columbus should be penalized in the place where it really hurts—the league standings.

Victoria president Ron Southern pointed out that $110 to the affluent Columbus club was not a large sum. "If there is no penalty in the standings," Southern said, "a team with a few injuries could just pass up an important game, pay the fine, and play the match later. With $600 at stake for first place in the league, the team would be well ahead."

A first-place finish is worth $300, second $400, and third and fourth $300 each.

It seems likely, however, that the league will stick to its original plan for a 24-game schedule. The recent period of bad weather led officials to consider an 18-game affair, but the longer schedule is now felt to be practicable.

THE LINEUP

United will start Larry DeCosta in goal with Dave Stothard and Tony Quinn at fullback, and George Paul, Bill Hamilton and Ron Jenkin the halves.

Indoor 880 To Crothers

NEW YORK (CP)—Bill Crothers, Canada's top track performer in the 1964 Olympics, sped to an easy victory Thursday night in the 880-yard race at the Wanamaker-Millrose games.

Crothers, silver medalist in the 800 metres at Tokyo, steamed ahead of a lacklustre field on the last lap and had a big margin at the finish. His time was 1:51.2.

Last year he set a North American indoor record of 1:50.0 in winning the event.

Second was Ed Duchini of the United States in 1:52.5. Frank Tomeo, also of the United States, was third in 1:52.6.

Crothers, who won two events in the Los Angeles meet last week, is scheduled to run in both Toronto and Boston before the week is out.

The lanky crew-cut runner stayed back in third place until the gun lap at Madison Square Garden, then he bolted past Tomeo and won it handily, some 10 yards in front of Duchini.

College Sports Revolution Coming

EDMONTON (CP)—The head of the University of Alberta's faculty of physical education says a revolution is in the making in western Canada intercollegiate sport.

Dr. Maury Van Vliet predicted in an interview Wednesday that by the early 1970s two university conferences and a like number of junior college leagues will be in operation.

Dr. Van Vliet also predicted re-admission of the University of British Columbia as a full member of the Western Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Association. Last year UBC withdrew from the Association in such major sports as football, hockey and basketball.

"With expected enrollment increases at the universities of Victoria and Regina, not to mention the new Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C., it is highly conceivable eight western universities will compete in most major sports by 1968."

Dr. Van Vliet said wholesale scholarships is a move toward bankruptcy, but he would like to see three or four basketball and hockey scholarships granted by each university in the west.

Scots Curlers Still Trailing

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian curlers maintained their commanding lead over Scotland in competition for the Strathcona Cup Thursday, losing four of six games but gaining a draw in the aggregate score.

The 60-60 total score of the Scots' six games against Montreal area rinks left Canada ahead 1,266-1,023 after 18 of the 20 scheduled cross-country matches. Scotland faces a giant task of making up the difference this weekend in Fredericton and Halifax.

Jack Gow of Edinburgh, Duncan Nichol of Fifehire, David Liddell and Bill Aikman, both of Glasgow, all skipped their rinks to victory by narrow margins while the Montrealers captured a pair of one-sided decisions.

Liddell edged Art Hincks of Montreal St. Anne's 14-13 when he counted with two draw shots on the final end. Nichol hung for an 11-9 victory when I. L. Ibbotson of Royal Montreal missed a crucial last shot.

Gow dropped S. D. Roberts of Montreal West 11-7—the Scots' biggest margin of victory—and Aikman squeezed by Bill Cook of Lachine 8-6 in the lowest-scoring match.

The Canadian triumphs were registered by Bill MacKay of Town of Mount Royal, 13-9 over Bob Grierson of Southwest, and E. H. Hodgeson, 12-7 over Eddie Walls of Falkirk.

The Strathcona Cup has been in competition since 1909 with each country winning it five times over the irregular schedule.

Suspensions Motel Party Aftermath

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)—Fifteen high school students—about eight of them girls—were suspended by the school board Wednesday night pending an investigation into an alleged drinking party involving the boys' and girls' basketball teams.

Authorities declined to comment on the incident, but it was learned that the coaches of the two teams returned the students to Kimberley last Saturday morning following a Friday night motel party at Invermere 85 miles to the north.

The motel party followed a game at Invermere. The teams were to have continued to Golden, B.C., Saturday for another game but this was called off.

The suspensions were handed out following an extraordinary meeting of the school board which was closed to the press.

City Boxers In Portland

Scheduled to participate in Golden Gloves competition at Portland Friday and Saturday are Les Vegas, Tommy Black and Bill Selfridge of the London Boxing Club of Victoria.

Coach Harry Morris and Tommy Kelly will accompany the fighters.

Red Cross Word for '64

Blood-Lettings Big, But Need Bigger

Prodigious blood-letting by Victoria district donors didn't keep blood stocks from dipping perilously low last year, says a Red Cross official.

Chairman Robert Hogarth told Victoria District Red Cross members Wednesday that 1964 donations were slightly more than in 1963.

75-PINTERS

He said some of 1964's 7,086 people who gave blood gave totals up to 75 pints during long association with the blood banks.

But not all would-be donors are eligible. Of the 7,292 donors who queued to give blood last year, 335 were rejected for a variety of reasons. To help in emergency situations, 192 special donors were called on for help.

Mr. Hogarth credited press, radio and television with valuable support of Red Cross campaigns.

MONEY SCARCER

Campaign chairman S. E. E. Morris told members it was a little more difficult to raise money in 1964 than the year before.

He blamed it on an erroneous belief of many Victorians that the Red Cross amalgamated with the United Appeal.

Nonetheless, the members were told, canvassers collected $82,444 or $2,000 more than the quota set by planners.

1,580 HOURS

Corps members logged 1,580 hours volunteer service last year, 556 in blood-donor clinics and another 301 in the Red Cross canteen.

Homemaker service handled 587 cases and cared for 979 children.

Junior Red Cross membership took in 97 per cent of district elementary schools for a total of 15,000 pupils, reported chairman Denis Brown.

Among junior-members projects was arranging for 225 stuffed toys and doll to be sent to Victoria hospitals.

STEIN RE-ELECTED

Major-General C. R. Stein was re-elected president of the branch by acclamation.

The destroyer-escort HMCS Ottawa will leave Esquimalt at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday to join Atlantic Command.

Her crew arrived here last Tuesday on HMCS Yukon which was transferred from Atlantic to Pacific Command.

The Ottawa was built in Montreal in 1956 and came to Esquimalt April 1, 1959, after three years in Atlantic Command. She recently underwent conversion at Victoria Machinery Depot for the addition of variable-depth sonar and helicopter facilities.

Police Chief Charged In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Police chief Reg. Axcell of Ottawa was charged Wednesday with failing to report an automobile accident involving damage exceeding $100 as required by the Highway Traffic Act.

The charge was laid by John Rankin, police chief of adjacent Nepean Township, on instructions of Crown Attorney John Cassels. The case will come up in court Feb. 3.

The accident occurred Dec. 11 on the parking lot of a shopping centre in Nepean Township. Chief Axcell, driving a departmental car, lost control of the vehicle and crashed into a concrete light standard.

He reported the accident to the Ottawa Police Commission on Jan. 4.

Hangman Would Keep Death Penalty To Keep Bums from Filling Prisons

TORONTO (CP)—John Ellis, one of two official hangmen in Canada using the same pseudonym, says he's in favor of retaining the death penalty.

"There are so many people . . . unemployed that just don't want to work. I contend that if a man is a born bum, when capital punishment is abolished all he has to do is shoot someone in the street, and he is sentenced to life with three meals a day in a warm room, and has a bed, and that is more than what a bum wants."

Screened Victoria Men

Three a Month Being Sterilized

Three carefully screened male candidates a month are voluntarily entering Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital for operations that render them sexually sterile.

The hospital is believed the first in British Columbia to openly offer the operation, which, though popular, has roused a storm of protest.

In the forefront are Catholic Church authorities, who say neither doctors nor patients have the right to interfere with birth processes.

SINCE SUMMER

The hospital's medical superintendent, Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, refused to say Thursday how many operations have been performed, but he said they averaged three a month since last summer.

A Victoria Medical Society spokesman said a strong reason for the program was a steady flow of Victorians seeking the surgery in the United States.

Doctors feared many of the operations might be under less than perfect conditions because of a number of cases in which complications set in.

And it's legal, according to the attorney-general's office, consulted by the hospital.

Yet to be tested in court, is whether a patient might sue the surgeon, should he later regret it.

Not just anyone can have the simple, 15-minute operation, involving cutting and tying a small tube.

A patient must be recommended by his doctor.

BY COMMITTEE

Then a medical committee at Jubilee judges the application on the basis of undivulged criteria.

The inexpensive surgery, reportedly $75 for the doctor and $2 for outpatient services, does not require hospitalization.

Dr. Anderson says the operation cannot be reversed and all patients are so informed.

Fall Injures Greek Sailor

A Greek seaman suffered two broken ribs in an accident aboard his ship Thursday morning and was taken to Veterans Hospital, where his condition was later described as good.

The man, 60-year-old John Chalkias, was understood to have received the injury in a fall aboard his ship, the 7,252-ton steamer Pyrgos, docked at Esquimalt.

Victoria Day celebrations this year.

The idea was adopted by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association after a suggestion by Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham, officer commanding the army's western command.

COVER 100 MILES

The marches would involve military units, which would cover 100 miles of marching, with the winning unit joining in with the Victoria Day parade.

The object of the Nijmegen marches is to finish in good time and good order.

Units taking part in the Victoria Day celebrations would be company size, about 150 men.

'Children Don't Know Him'

Memorial Holiday Opposed

Greater Victoria school children won't agree—but at least one man is opposed to declaring a half-holiday today out of respect for Winston Churchill.

A. P. Rainey, 577 Transit, called the Colonist Thursday to criticize school board action in declaring the holiday today.

"Holidays are for happy occasions. They are not for sad occasions like this," said Mr. Rainey. "You don't give holidays for times of grief."

Most children have no idea who Churchill was. I asked some of them.

Mr. Rainey, who in the early 1920s umpired several of Winston Churchill's polo matches, said children would simply use the time to enjoy themselves.

Memorial day holidays also came under fire from Mr. Rainey.

"That's another day that shouldn't be a holiday. In England that sort of occasion is marked by a two-minute silence or some other mark of respect." About those polo games. "Churchill was a very aggressive player. Not top notch, you know—but good. Very good at riding opponents off the ball and he swung a good mallet. But he was too bulky to sit a horse well," said the former umpire.

The latest egg arrived at 1 p.m. Thursday, and was almost immediately broken.

In Oak Bay Future

It's High Rises —Or Ditto Taxes

Oak Bay council will consider Monday a report by engineer-planner G. O. White that new apartments are likely to be the only means of building Oak Bay's financial assets.

"Apartment building development is finding eight storeys the minimum for economic rents at present," said Mr. White in his annual capital works and planning report.

SIX IS HIGH-RISE

According to Oak Bay regulations, any apartment six storeys or higher is a high-rise.

"Our regulations governing the development of apartment sites are more stringent than our neighbors, and we are not likely to obtain any of this type of development unless sites large enough to allow economically feasible building are zoned for this purpose."

REVIEW DESIRABLE

One area that does not now have well-planned development was cited by Mr. White as that along Oak Bay Avenue.

"A review of the area zoned for apartments from Haultain Street to Oak Bay Avenue is now desirable."

Zoning Appeals Slated

A proposal to build a seaside apartment south of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel is once again back in the news and back in court.

Two separate appeals have been filed in Court of Appeal this week against the judgment Jan. 12 of Supreme Court judge R. A. Wootton quashing an Oct. 5 Oak Bay rezoning bylaw.

TWO GROUPS

Oak Bay council is one of the parties filing an appeal; the other is the group planning to build Hampshire House, the name of the projected $750,000 three-storey apartment.

Mr. Justice Wootton ruled that a public hearing Sept. 28 did not provide the public with a full opportunity to be heard and that the bylaw contained uncertainties.

Edwin Popham is again expected to be legal counsel for those resident of Beach Drive between the hotel and golf course who retained him to oppose the bylaw in Supreme Court.

DATE NOT SET

W. R. McIntyre will be counsel for the apartment group.

Although a date for the appeals, to be heard concurrently, will not be set before a number of legal preliminaries have been undertaken, participants hope for a hearing "before summer, and possibly by April."

Fare Petitions Rolling Along

With more than 3,500 signatures already recorded on the massive protest they are preparing against high bus fares, Silver Threads officials are confident they will reach their 7,000-name objective.

"There has been no slackening in enthusiasm. I have never seen these older people so worked up about anything they have tackled. They are determined to get some action," said Mrs. Catharine Horne, executive director of the service, Thursday.

500 PER DAY

Signatures are coming in at the rate of 500 a day, Mrs. Horne said.

A target date of Feb. 5 has been set and, by that time, it is expected that the goal will be exceeded.

The city hall rotunda booth has been a lucrative source of signatures, Mrs. Horne says, and many people have been voluntarily dropping in at the Silver Service Centre on Humboldt.

A number of other old-age organizations have been recruited to assist and many senior citizens are taking petition sheets home with them and soliciting on their own.

SLACK HOURS

The pensioners are asking that they be granted a year-long $3 pass to ride the buses, pointing out that rush hours will be avoided. Older people, they add, do not like the crush and bustle of rush-hour traffic and will be more inclined to use the service in mid-morning and mid-afternoon.

Cash bus fare for adults now is 20 cents.

Waldo's Figures Wrong —Wilson

Mayor R. B. Wilson struck back Thursday at Waldo Skillings (SC-Victoria) who held Victoria up as an example of the affluent municipality.

Referring to Mr. Skillings' remarks in the legislature about an ornate mayor's office and $85 chairs in city hall committee rooms, Mayor Wilson said: "Waldo should get his figures straight."

$22 A FOOT

His office did not cost $275,000, said the mayor. That was the figure for the whole of the new legislative wing, including the council chamber, at city hall. The structure actually worked out at about $22 a foot which is the going rate for an office building.

"It is strange to see a sitting member for Victoria take a roundhouse swing at city hall and what we are trying to do to improve our city."

MUSEUM, ARCHIVES

"I do hope Waldo is not going to disapprove of the truly magnificent new museum and archives planned by the provincial government, because this too will contribute substantially to the beautification and improvement of Victoria," the mayor said.

Grass Roots Drive Begun by Tories

Progressive Conservatives party's next standard-bearer in Victoria.

Mr. Fulton said in his letter: "This is an honor I appreciate very much but I am not free to accept." He added that he hoped the local association would select a candidate of the highest calibre as soon as possible.

Eric Charman, who was the Tory candidate here in the last federal election, said he didn't know whether he would seek the nomination again.

"I haven't had the honor of an invitation such as Mr. Fulton received," he said.

He thanked the St. John Ambulance Association for its recognition of the heroic action.

The presentations were made at the annual meeting of the Association which is a member agency of the Community Chest.

Despite some misgivings, aldermen approved of the expenditure of $4,388 for advertising and pre-opening publicity, $325 for a reception for the opening night star, Elsa Lanchester, $295 for preparation of a mailing list and $760 to hire searchlights for use on opening night.

"Are aldermen going to be able to ask guests to the opening? Is there a select list and if so, who is doing the selecting?" asked Ald. Millard Mooney.

No Business In House

No business will be conducted by the legislature today.

The House will open at 2 p.m. and go into Orders of the Day, after which it will be adjourned in time for members to attend the memorial service for the late Sir Winston Churchill in Christ Church Cathedral at 3 p.m.

Also at 11 a.m., bells will ring in the United Churches of Victoria, at the suggestion

Big Ballyhoo for Playhouse

It's a Necessary Evil

The publicity and ballyhoo which will be part of the McPherson Playhouse opening has given Ald. Robert Baird the impression that "there's a circus coming to town."

He doesn't react favorably to it all, he told members of city council on Thursday.

FIRST REACTION

"Well, that was my first reaction I must admit but I am now convinced that it is all necessary," said Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the committee which has jurisdiction over the theatre.

Despite some misgivings, aldermen approved of the expenditure of $4,388 for advertising and pre-opening publicity, $325 for a reception for the opening night star, Elsa Lanchester, $295 for preparation of a mailing list and $760 to hire searchlights for use on opening night.

"Are aldermen going to be able to ask guests to the opening? Is there a select list and if so, who is doing the selecting?" asked Ald. Millard Mooney.

A representative group had been invited to the opening, said Ald. Toone, but if aldermen Commissioner of the Greater Victoria Water District R. A. Upward has been appointed by the provincial cabinet to serve on the council of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C.

Mr. Upward along with three other appointees will join a seven-man council elected by members at the annual meeting in December.

Sea cadets and air cadets will form a special color guard for the occasion.

Later during the meeting, City Manager Dennis Young said that an anonymous donor had tentatively pledged a gift of $2,000 to the playhouse.

It had been decided to spend the money on enlarging and improving the inadequate theatre chandelier.

STILL NEEDED

The potential donor had still not committed himself and could not be reached at the moment but work on the chandelier was still needed, said Mr. Young.

Council was asked to allocate $2,000 so that the work could go ahead and the chandelier be ready for opening night, Feb. 26. This it did.

CRUCIAL TIME

"This opening night is a crucial time in the life of the playhouse," said Ald. Toone earlier in the meeting.

"It is necessary to make a big impact on the opening night and the general welfare of the theatre for a long time could hinge on its success," he added.

Machines Replace Work of Reducing

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Parisians, making a gallant effort to be slimmer, have shed an estimated 1,200,000 pounds in the last year.

To do it, they have been pummeled and pounded, baked and boiled, at 350 different establishments licensed to help the population reduce its weight.

Frenchwomen are conscious that current fashion decrees a slim figure.

At the same time they are fond of good food, and dislike gymnastics and physical culture.

The net result is that reducing salons do a thriving business, and new places, featuring new "miracle" methods, are opening all the time.

Physical therapists at leading reducing salons say there is a growing trend toward passive treatment.

Baths and massage take priority over exercise. The majority of clients infinitely prefer to lie down and let a machine do the work.

Electrical massage tends to replace hand massage, and is considered four times more effective for spot reducing.

The director of one salon which caters primarily for businessmen and women who are tired, or just plain lazy, explains: "Our job is the upkeep of the body, not to teach athletic skills."

His clients are peacefully immersed in a bath of steam, seaweed or black mud, which is also beneficial for rheumatism.

An unusual innovation at another salon, which specializes in reducing specific areas like the hips, is the "dream machine" which women take home.

"During a course of treatments, a woman must constantly strive to achieve her goal," explains Dr. Jean Caux.

Women Join

Club Membership Soars

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Twenty Canadian women's organizations now have memberships of more than 10,000, says the women's bureau of the federal labor department.

The bureau's annual listing of national women's groups shows that about 1,500,000 women or girls belong to the 20 biggest national organizations.

Groups listed include religious, political, professional, charitable, and also young women's organizations such as the Girl Guides of Canada and the Canadian Girls in Training.

The largest women's group on the list, with 250,000 members, is the United Church Women, a national church group founded in 1962 through the amalgamation of a number of smaller United Church women's organizations.

The UCW, which has its headquarters in Toronto, lowered its estimate of members in 1964 from 300,000 to 250,000. But it still has enough members to lead the second largest group—the Girl Guides of Canada.

The Girl Guides, founded in this country in 1909, increased its membership by more than 6,000 in the last year. It now claims 226,524 members.

Third is the Catholic Women's League with 155,000, up 3,000.

A comparatively young organization, the Canadian Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, founded in 1951, is the fourth biggest national women's group. It reports a total of about 140,000 members in 850 auxiliaries across the country.

A professional organization, the Canadian Nurses' Association, ranks fifth with 77,618. Founded in 1908, it has national offices in Ottawa.

Of the 20 biggest groups, 10 showed an increase in membership from 1963 to 1964. Four report losses—United Church Women, Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada and Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

The Women's Institutes have reported a small but steady drop in membership for several years and a spokesman in the national office here says the population shift from rural to urban areas is responsible.

The following figures show the estimated 1964 memberships of the 20 largest women's organizations, with 1963 figures in brackets:

United Church Women, 250,000 (300,000); Girl Guides of Canada, 226,524 (220,242); Catholic Women's League, 155,000 (152,000); Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, 140,000 (90,000); Canadian Nurses Association, 77,618 (76,000); Women's Liberal Federation, 75,000 (75,000).

National Groups

Young Women's Christian Association, 73,000 (70,000); Federated Women's Institutes, 72,000 (75,000); Progressive Conservative Women's Association, 71,000 (71,000); Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church, 55,951 (56,916); Canadian Girls in Training, 52,766 (52,766); Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, 45,509 (46,111).

Cercles de Femmes, 39,750 (39,125); Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, 30,000 (30,000); L'Union Catholique des Femmes Rurales, 21,000 (22,000); Salvation Army Home League, 15,974 (15,500); Hadasah-Wizo Organization, 15,945 (14,934); Baptist Women's Missionary Society of Quebec and Ontario, 11,678 (11,678); Canadian Federation of University Women, 10,740 (10,300); Federation des Femmes Canadiennes-Francaises, 10,000 (10,000).

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Sutherland, 320 Kamloops Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Anne Louise, to Mr. Malcolm Ridley Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Hall, Vancouver. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m., March 20, in Metropolitan United Church with Rev. Albert E. King officiating.

Health Kits Received

It was announced at regular meeting of Municipal Chapter, IODE, held at headquarters with Mrs. E. Lowthian, regent, presiding, that restoration of the war graves in Ross Bay Cemetery was half completed.

Members also learned that the 164 health kits sent to the hospital in Northwest Territories had arrived in good order. Letter of appreciation was received from Dr. M. Cass.

Mrs. T. Muirhead, committee chairman, reported arrangements were well in hand for the 1965 IODE Festival to be held at Club Sirocco on Feb. 13.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My parents tell me that when I was a little boy they were worried about me because I didn't say a word until I was almost four years old. They even took me to doctors. The doctors said I would talk when I was ready.

Well, now I am 13 years old and I can't shut up. I talk mostly foolishness which makes me ashamed of myself. Sometimes I don't know what I am going to say until after I have said it. I can make up an opinion without any notice. I even interrupt people who know what they are talking about to say something I just thought up that very second.

Already I have been nicknamed "Gabby."

Can you help me? Why do I talk all the time? How can I make myself shut up?—TALKING MACHINE.

Dear Machine: Most people who talk, talk, talk are victims of a nervous habit. Silence is a better clue to intelligence than senseless chatter.

Train yourself to listen. You will be amazed at what you can learn when your mouth is shut.

Dear Ann Landers: I heard you lecture recently and you said almost half of your readers are men. I was not surprised because my husband says all the men in his office discuss your column every day.

Since a great many men read you, Ann, will you print something about American men who are killing themselves trying to corner all the money in the world?

Every time I pick up a newspaper I see where some young executive had dropped dead of a coronary. I worry myself sick that my husband will be next.

What can be done about a man who is so obsessed to succeed that he is driving himself to an early grave? Yes, I like the advantages that come with money, but I'd rather enjoy fewer of these advantages and have my husband with me 10 or 15 years longer.

Please discuss this in the paper, Ann. I'm sure other women are searching for an answer.—TOO YOUNG FOR WIDOWHOOD.

Dear Too Young: Hard work never killed anybody. Worry and tension are the twin demons that can put people six feet under before their time. Of course, unsuccessful people can worry themselves into early graves, too, but you don't hear much about them.

Eighty years ago the life expectancy of the average American male was 34. Today it is 69. People are living longer, but they must die of something—sometime. The old killers, TB and typhoid, are well under control. Diagnosis today is more accurate, too. Fifty years ago men died from heart disease but often the doctors called it something else because they did not know what else to call it.

The best way to avoid a heart attack, according to the experts, is to keep your weight under control, exercise moderately—and regularly—and pick ancestors with good blood vessels and a history of long life.

Colour The Keynote For Spring

From Italy, land of sunshine and gaiety, come the new shades that are setting the style picture for this year. Colour, new, vibrant and exciting, is the keynote in the two and three-piece knits now arriving daily from the fashion houses of Rome and Milan. Predominant amongst the many flattering shades are Rosato, a new and deeper pink, Nilo, a soft and flattering green capturing the spirit of the Mediterranean, and of course the perennial Spring favourite Navy—sometimes plain Navy and sometimes mixed with either White or Baby Blue.

Restrained, and yet femininely flattering in their styling these knits with their easy fitting and crease-resistant qualities make almost the perfect garment for today's busy and yet fashion conscious women, and are equally at home in the office, and for afternoon or informal evening wear.

Designed by Tricosa of Paris, with the inimitable French look, are the super-soft wool knits which have won the unqualified approval of Victoria women for the past two years. These in a veritable palette of colours in Tricosa's own exclusive jacquard knit and in the new tweed look... and so very reasonably priced too.

From Western Germany, where the art of printing on wool reaches its apex, come the colourful and ever-popular printed wool knit jacket sweaters in shades coordinating with the fabulous Baku wool knit slims... a combination ideal for informal wear.

These and many other items, all freshly arrived, are now showing for your Spring pleasure at

Life Begins At 40

By AUDREY PRATT
Toronto Telegram News Service

At 86, if you have all your faculties, people are filled with awe and say, "Isn't she marvelous. Imagine, she's out every day and plays bridge every night."

This is peachy and I'm all for it. But what happens in the 40 years before that golden age?

Once you hit the middle 40s deterioration sets in. You fall apart before your very eyes. Nobody in your immediate circle says then, "Isn't she wonderful. She got home from downtown alone."

THE HAZARDS

And in this arid wasteland of middle age, little do they know of the hazards you have faced while shopping, not the least of which is meeting a friend.

It's not a bit like that TV commercial of one old school chum wondering why the other looks so much younger.

This may cross your mind, but your immediate concern is what-in-all-creation is the other person's name?

If you are alone you can probably fake it, but if you're with someone, how can you make the necessary introductions without giving yourself away?

A friend of mine solves this problem by introducing her nameless friend with her head turned firmly away and mouths some such thing as "Margaret, may I introduce Mrs. Gillin-wharkendort."

Nobody hears her, so it usually passes off very well. And then there's exercising.

You notice one bleak day that the outlines of your once beautiful legs have become blurred. Or you wave your arm suddenly and the bottom half above your elbow doesn't quite keep up with the rest.

HOUSEMAID'S KNEE
You buy a 10 BX, do one chart madly for three days, and then find yourself with sciatica, housemaid's knee, a stiff neck and no change in your outlines.

So you resignedly buy yourself long-sleeved dresses for evening and slacks for the beach, and sit there hating all the gorgeous young things in bikinis. Volumes have been written by middle-aged people on middle-aged eyesight. I have passed the stage where I can't find the numbers in the phone book. Now I can't find the book.

Then there are drafts. When young, you could sit in a room with a three-cornered gale blowing through it and never bat an eye. But after 40, let a window behind you be open half an inch and you can't move your head for a week.

But there's one thing the young can't do that we can. One wonderful adventure that belongs only to us and compensates for all our losses. We can become grandmothers. Who cares about the sags and the bags, when there's a baby we can spoil!

Cocktails In Theatre Debated

A debate on whether or not there should be a cocktail bar in the new McPherson Theatre was a highlight of the recent joint meeting of the Victoria and Arbutus Toastmistress clubs.

The debate was held in the Colonial Inn with Mrs. C. Conrad presiding. Presenting the debate for the affirmative were Mrs. M. F. J. Dearman and Mrs. D. E. Pite of the Arbutus club. For the negative were Mrs. K. S. Baines and Mrs. J. R. Pipes of the Victoria club.

Chairman was Mrs. C. C. Warren, and judges, John Fraser, Charles Conrad, Fleming Zuhling and Gordon Willis. Members of toastmasters' clubs. Toastmistress for the evening was Mrs. J. Wiat. She was introduced by Mrs. J. M. Speers. Participants were thanked by Mrs. E. J. Brady.

Topic mistress, Mrs. E. Conrad, was introduced by Mrs. D. L. Brown and conducted a discussion ranging from superstition to the future of downtown Victoria.

Mrs. H. E. Rasmussen gave the inspiration and Mrs. E. Conrad, the closing thought. General evaluator was Mrs. A. Petersen, timer, Miss Donalds Lenz, and lexicologist, Mrs. F. Hong. Other guests from the Arbutus club were Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge and Mrs. H. Kerr.

Organization Key to Success When Staging Fashion Shows

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—If your club is sponsoring a fashion show, organization is the key to success, whether you are using professionals or club members as models and commentators.

The key to organization is to give yourself lots of time, says Catherine Smyth, Toronto public relations counsellor.

"If you are working with a store, give them at least three weeks' notice. Their part in it may sound easy but it's a lot of work."

Advise your local newspaper well in advance, and get invitations out early enough to assure a good audience.

"Make sure the models know the physical aspects of the room they will be working in. If they are professional they won't need a complete run-through, but let them know exactly what to expect. If the models are amateurs they should have a rehearsal."

Miss Smyth says that if using amateurs "they should be people who are enthusiastic about clothes so they make it look as if modelling is fun." And the models should suit the clothes and vice-versa. For example, don't use high school girls to how sophisticated evening wear. The models will also have to be willing to take time to have a fitting before the show.

COMMENTATOR

"Be sure a good commentator is used. This is really very important. Make sure she is fully aware of the clothes, well prepared before the show."

Miss Smyth says the commentator should know the number for each item, its fabric, color, price, and be able to say who provided the accessories. "In her commentary she should say a little more than that it is black and lined. She should be someone who is fashion-conscious. She can work ahead of time, read fashion magazines for tips. She should allow no awkward silences, and should be good enough so that a mix-up in order of appearances, for instance, won't floor her."

Music is important, says Miss Smyth. "Have a piano or quartet, or use canned music you can control. If you are going to serve food, serve it after the show unless it's very informal."

Backstage there should be a dresser, a room large enough to change in, a rack on which the clothes can be hung in order of appearance, and another rack for the models' own clothes.

The clothes should arrive ahead of time, be pressed if necessary, checked and numbered. The commentator should be present while this is being done.

Miss Smyth says about 35 to 40 garments make a good show. About five to seven models should be enough.

The models should come equipped with white and black gloves and good black shoes unless these are being loaned for the occasion. They should also have some jewelry, but the dresser might be prepared to offer tactful advice on how to dress up or dress down a garment with jewelry.

"If you have amateur models, have them be natural. Don't try strange new hairdos or makeup on the night of a show.

"They should walk slowly, know how to handle a skirt, and turn slowly to show it. And they should smile."

"Tell them to talk to the audience if it's that kind of show. All they need say is, 'Yes, isn't it lovely?' It's from Smith's."

"They won't be nervous if they are sure of what they're doing. That's why a rehearsal is important."

Undertakers' Plans Given Quick Funeral

A controversial private bill aimed at eliminating memorial societies in B.C. was killed on the floor of the House Thursday.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan refused consent for a routine motion to suspend House rules to permit introduction of a petition for the bill.

CLOSED SHOP

It would have incorporated the Western Embalmers Association and made the undertaking business throughout the province a closed shop.

Ernie LeCours (SC-Delta), who introduced the motion in the House, later told reporters in the corridor outside that the sponsors of the bill mailed him a copy two weeks ago and he agreed to present it in the House, provided he liked its contents.

DIDN'T LIKE BILL

Mr. LeCours said he didn't like the bill, but in the meantime it had been printed by the clerk of the House with his name on it.

"I decided it would be all right to present the bill in the House and let it be thrown out in committee," said Mr. LeCours.

Mr. Strachan's refusal to give the necessary unanimous consent to suspend House rules temporarily blocked the bill.

He said he did it because the government member didn't mention beforehand that he was bringing in a controversial bill.

Outside the House, however, Mr. Strachan said he opposed it because the sponsors made it clear they wanted to eliminate memorial societies that provided cheap funerals.

The bill could be brought in later, but Mr. LeCours said he isn't interested in bringing it before the House again.

LICENSING POWER

It would have given the association power to educate, instruct and set general standards for embalmers, and funeral directors, and the authority to license them.

Only those licensed would be allowed to operate funeral establishments.

Transit System Before Freeway

B.C. should be prepared to risk several million dollars on a mass transit experiment before plunging into a far more costly freeway construction program, Arthur Turner (NDP-Vancouver East) said in the House Thursday.

He said "very low fares" should be offered in Greater Victoria and on the Lower Mainland as an inducement for people to leave their cars home.

"Down in the U.S. the multi-million dollar freeway projects are obsolete from the day they open," said Mr. Turner. "Yet auto makers continue to predict more cars on the road. The end isn't in sight."

Quips Shot Down

NDP Needles Joker

Socialist MLA Stan Carnell started off with an after-dinner joke and ran into an NDP crossfire.

"I would be the first to admit we in British Columbia don't have a Utopia but that doesn't mean we shouldn't work for that end," he said.

"Down in the Bahamas there is no inheritance tax, no corporation income tax, no gift tax or sales tax. . . ."

"Nobody has any money," called someone. "Do they have

Harding Jibe

'Tories Without Whiskers'

B.C. Tories are really Tories with their whiskers shaved off, Randolph Harding (NDP-Kaslo Slocan) told the House Thursday.

He attacked the throne speech as "a poor start to the dynamic society" because it failed to blueprint plans for the future and didn't even mention many major social problems.

LIP SERVICE

Socialists pay lip service to free enterprise at election time, said Mr. Harding, but in the House the government's policies are designed to kill free enterprise.

"There is not one single Douglas Social Creditor among you," he told the government benches.

"All your speeches and all your policies show the blue Tory underwear underneath."

He called on government members to support the NDP in its bid to obtain comprehensive medicare instead of the mini-medicare plan proposed in the throne speech.

"We want all that modern medical science can provide, and the people should accept nothing less," said Mr. Harding.

Mr. Harding again proposed takeover of Kootenay Power and Light Company by B.C. Hydro.

TO STEP IN

He said the private utility has repeatedly refused to provide power to the Lardeau district in his riding and now Hydro is about to step in to provide the necessary service.

New dams on the Columbia River will be ringed with "an unsightly mess of water-killed trees" for many years to come unless the government acts now, Mr. Harding said.

Steps should also be taken now to make the lakes attractive for recreational use by constructing beaches and other facilities before the waters rise, he said.

Cariboo MLA Says:

Student Nurses In Need of Aid

By JACK FRY

Regulations governing the operation of nursing homes in British Columbia should be changed to make them more efficient and more livable, a government member told the legislature Thursday.

MLA William Speare (SC-Cariboo) also told the House that more attention must be given to the education and recruitment of nurses in the province.

As an example, he said later that student nurses at Royal Jubilee Hospital are paid only $9 a month by the hospital during their first year, $10 a month during their second year and $15 a month during their third year.

Financial assistance should be given to student nurses in hospital schools.

Four other provinces have already tackled the nursing home problem and B.C. should take action too, said the deputy speaker.

Mr. Speare suggested that the 75-bed limit for nursing homes be raised to 100 beds, for increased efficiency.

The rate charged for occupancy should be based on the amount of services which are extended to patients backed by closer inspection.

"There should be a properly organized activity program and there should be life in these institutions — the community should be drawn more into the activity of the nursing home."

'Inconvenience' Signs For Pollution, Too?

"Sorry for the inconvenience" signs like those used by the highways department should be adopted by the provincial pollution control board, Arthur Turner (NDP-Vancouver East) said in the House Thursday.

He said he hoped that reference in the throne speech to new pollution controls will mean that provincial authorities will move into places like Langford Lake and clean up the recently reported outbreak of deadly blue-green algae.

The legislation will be asked to make "twisting" legal in B.C. Twisting in the insurance business means an agent persuading a client to drop his insurance policy in favor of one with greater benefits.

Alex Macdonald (NDP-Vancouver East) will ask the House to repeal section 284 of the Insurance Act which makes any agent guilty of twisting liable to a $500 fine and loss of his licence.

Mr. Macdonald said Thursday section 284 protects insurance companies rather than the public.

Premier Bennett announced the sale of $10,000,000 worth of B.C. school district debentures, payable in U.S. funds. The issue will mature in 1985.

Premier Bennett didn't offer to give the Yukon $300,000,000.

Garden Notes

Check Those Twigs!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

There are several different diseases which attack apple and pear fruits in the summer, but which spend the winter in hibernation on the shoots and branches of the trees.

The smart gardener will keep his eyes open for signs of these during the winter pruning operations, when each branch or twig is being subjected to a careful and critical scrutiny.

Take, for instance, the brown rot disease of apples, plums, pears and other fruits, an infection which is responsible for a lot of losses among the ripening fruits in summer.

Brown rot is caused by a fungus organism which rots the fruits and covers them with small, whitish cushions of spores, and the disease is spread by the release of these spores.

The infected fruits rot, and some fall to the ground, but others will cling to the branches all winter as shrivelled, mummified fruits.

These are deadly sources of infection, because the brown rot fungus in them is not dead but only resting, ready to get in its licks again next summer.

Fallen fruit should always be gathered up and either burned or buried deeply. The mummified fruit left on the branches is doubly dangerous, because the infection will often grow right down the stalk and into the wood.

For this reason, when you remove the "mummies", don't just pick them off but cut them, taking a portion of the twig or spur along with each one.

Another disease which can be controlled to a considerable extent by good hygiene and careful pruning is apple scab.

This causes those annoying brown or black scabby patches on the skins of apples and pears in summer, and although the fruit doesn't rot, its appearance is ruined and it doesn't keep well in storage. Scabby fruit tends to shrivel weeks ahead of healthy specimens.

The scab fungus lives during the winter on fallen leaves and on living twigs. The leaves can be composted or dug into the vegetable plot, but it is necessary to keep a sharp eye out for infected twigs.

It shows up on young shoots as rounded, swollen blisters which grow and eventually break open, like a boil, to make scabs or pustules in the bark.

These are open, usually with ragged edges, and in the late stages of the disease, the shoots will have a very ragged and shabby appearance which is quite easy to recognize alongside healthy growth.

When pruning, it is important to cut out these badly-scabbed shoots and spurs so as to destroy as many sources of infection as possible.

On pears, the infected wood may occur all in a bunch on one part of the tree only, and all this should be cut away ruthlessly. In addition, any dead or dying shoots or branches, from whatever cause, must be cut away and burned.

The Weighty Problems of JACK SMITH

$9,000 Will Never Do It

Bureaucracy is one of the wonders of our time. One tends to think of it as overgrown, ponderous and dull.

Actually, the institution occasionally shows flashes of humor and whimsy, and it can spend money like a frivolous bride.

The U.S. health, education and welfare department, for example, has earmarked $9,000 for a study whose purpose is stated as follows:

"To evaluate the hypothesis that the weight of individual subjects can be approximated with sufficient accuracy from the subject's own estimate or one given by a second source within the same household."

That is not only as fine a piece of gobbledegook as I have seen out of Washington since the Eisenhower administration, but a fascinating insight into the kind of work the department is up to.

Translated into English, I would guess the purpose of the study is to find out how good people are at guessing their own weight, or their spouse's.

I don't know how the department is going to go about this study, except to send its agents from door to door with scales in hand, asking housewives and husbands to guess their weight, then checking their guesses against the scales.

I wouldn't want to be one of those agents. They will have to be as suave as a diplomat, cool as a Secret Service man and brave as an astronaut.

I doubt if a man working on this hypothesis could get past my house with his nerve unshaken, much less down the whole block.

Just for fun, if you can call it that, I asked my wife the question:

"What do you suppose you weigh now?"

"Why?" she said, managing to charge that single syllable with a quality of caution and resentment.

"I just wondered," I said. "That's all. I'm conducting an experiment. It's a hypothesis."

"It's this dress," she said. "It doesn't fit right in the waist."

"Who said anything about your dress? I just wondered how much you weigh now. I mean, how much you think you weigh."

"You're not so sylph-like yourself anymore," she said. "Who said anything about me? Besides, I am rather sylph-like. I don't lie around on the couch all day eating fig newtons."

"Just because there weren't any fig newtons last night, when you decided you wanted one, don't blame me. The boys ate the fig newtons last weekend."

"Well how much?" "How much what?" "How much would you say you weigh?"

"I really don't know. The scales aren't working right." "I don't mean how much you actually weigh, by the scales. I mean how much would you guess you weigh? Just a guess."

She went out to the service porch and got the vacuum cleaner. It's the ultimate weapon.

No, it's going to take a lot more than $9,000.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Project Baby First

LONDON (NANA)—Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti hope to be married in France before Sophia completes her Lady L picture. Carlo will then be a French citizen and their marriage will, I assume, be recognized all over the world and this should include Italy. And this is Sophia's plan. All the films for which she has signed will begin after a complete rest of six months. If they begin at all for a year or so. Because Sophia wants to have a baby. She suffered a miscarriage while making a film last year and she will take no chances again. Project Baby is the most important thing in her life. If Sophia and Carlo are not to be blessed with children, then, and only then, will they go in for adoption.

First film on Miss Loren's schedule after her six months or longer of rest, is the Arthur Miller story, After The Fall. And the reason he wanted Sophia to play the part is because she does not look like the late Marilyn Monroe. Many critics believed that after The Fall was the story of Miller's marriages—and I don't have to remind you that Marilyn was wife number 2.

James Mason popped up to Huddersfield to see his parents who have just celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary—their diamond jubilee. James brought ma a diamond brooch. For pa, there was a gold cigar clipper.

Ingrid Bergman is making a movie in Sweden then a play in England... Natalie Wood is shopping in Paris... and it's all quiet on the Norwegian front between Kirk Douglas and Richard Harris. Everyone had expected friction between the two deep-chested males while they toil in The Heroes of Telemark. They are not only deep-chested, but strong-minded. But they like—and more important, respect each other as actors.

Peter O'Toole, who was so good as the king in Becket, will be a king again—if Hal Wallis has his way. Hall has offered him the role of Henry VIII in Anne Of A Thousand Days, with Geraldine Chaplin set for the tragic Anne Boleyn.

Joy Adamson, authoress of Born Free and the sequel, is in London to see her publishers about her new book, People of Kenya. After two days of confabs she returns to her beloved Africa where she and her husband are doing the technical advising on the Carl Foreman-Sam Jaffe production that is of necessity going slowly because lions have to be treated carefully.

There are only two members of the clan in good standing. Tony Curtis left long ago. Peter Lawford dropped out after President John Kennedy's inauguration. And now Sammy Davis has just confided to a British reporter that he was deeply hurt when Sinatra did not attend the opening night in New York of Sammy's hit, Golden Boy. But the rift must have occurred before, or Sinatra would have been there. Sammy is enjoying staying put with his family. Night clubs pay more money but you are always packing and unpacking and kissing your relatives goodbye.

Interesting that the top television show in England deals with the First World War. I wonder when the Second World War will be deemed fit for viewing without heartbreak. The Russians have put the German invasion of Russia on the big, big screen and I do mean Cinemas. It will be shown in London in the spring, appropriately at the London Coliseum.

Guess whom Lerner and Loewe had in mind for Professor Higgins when they first got down to writing My Fair Lady? Noel Coward, that's who. They reckoned he could sing as well as have a clipped British accent. They also thought of Michael Redgrave. It took about a year before Rex Harrison was considered. The other two would have been good, but one might have been too acid and the other too sweet. Rex was just right.

German-born Horst Buchholz is in Spain starring in This Man From Istanbul, in which he plays an American.

Shelley Winters is always good copy because she talks off the top of her head—by this I mean Shelley doesn't pause to mull over each word. She says that she thinks. And that is why the British press is looking forward to her arrival. She will appear here with her Actors Studio group for three weeks.

Bizarre Film Enthralling

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movies about kidnapping are uncomfortable to watch, which may be why none has been successful. Seance on A Wet Afternoon, a bizarre kidnap tale, is not likely to win a wide audience because of this apparent distaste to view children in jeopardy.

But it can be recommended for those seeking a completely engrossing, if unnerving, two hours.

The British film begins and ends with an expedition into the occult. In between, two dispossessed individuals plot and carry out their diabolical scheme.

The idea seems to be that a medium and her compliant husband figure to abduct a rich man's daughter, then help solve the crime as public proof of her extrasensory powers.

There may be deeper meanings involved, but most moviegoers will have enough to do anticipating the next turn of events. That's how engrossing the film is.

Kim Stanley makes one of her too-infrequent film appearances as the unhappy medium. Her Myra, addicted to scratchy opera records and brow-beating her husband, is a rare portrait. The final trance, in which she comforts herself through childhood scenes, is the kind that makes academy consideration imperative.

Richard Attenborough, who doubles as producer, plays the husband with such deftness and sympathy that you almost find yourself pulling for him to accomplish the job. The director is Bryan Forbes, who scored with last season's The L-Shaped Room.

New University Mosaic Dignified, Arresting

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

Dignified and arresting in its formal balance and totemic character, the recently-installed, free-standing mosaic panel by Margaret Peterson dominates the entrance to the library of the University.

This Victoria artist has been in Europe for over a year now on a Canada Council scholarship, most of the time in Ravenna, the Italian city on the Adriatic coast famous for its mosaic murals.

It was her intention when starting out to soak herself in the atmosphere of the period responsible for the creation of those masterpieces of mosaic design.

With that in mind she collected shards or fragments of long buried pottery and broke them up into squarish-shaped blocks of small size to form the

City Firm Wins Prison Job

A Victoria firm will build a $262,995 William Head minimum-security institution cubic dormitory building.
Luney Brothers and Hamilton,
Ltd., was lowest of seven bidders on the contract that drew a high bid of $310,820, said federal Public Works Minister Jean Paul Deschatelets Thursday.

Work is expected to commence almost immediately on the masonry-on-steel-frame building in the six-year-old experimental prison for minimum-security or good-conduct inmates.

The building is the second phase of progressive renewal of the entire building complex 13 miles southwest of Victoria on the Metchosin Road.

The contract is for three of four wings of a single building.
The fourth wing is to be built later.

The wings are two-storey structures that will contain 21 single rooms to a floor. The project is based on plans prepared for the department by Vancouver architect R. Kemble.

terrace which would be the medium used for the work, and what a beautiful medium this can be, as the subtly varied surface catches the light just enough to create a subdued glow in the colors of the tiles in this imaginative and expertly handled design.

The play of perpendiculars against arcs and full circles creates an inner activity and counterbalance of positive and negative space.

There is just enough depic-ture from the strict formality of the balance to give it freedom and added interest.

Images form the basis of mosaic art and are particularly suited to the totemic character of the art of Margaret Peterson which, in its archaic directness and strong impact, resists classification.

I have heard criticism that the color scheme is too sombre, that it needs some of the abandon that is generally present in Peterson paintings; but this is a different thing, the colors move in unison, muted yellow into greyed red-orange and from there to yellow-green, a curious ashen brown and a sonorous black with elephant grey undertones.

There is enough light in the background or negative spaces to carry the composition.

Unique Operation For Big Male Lion

MONTREAL (CP)—Cato, a two-year-old male lion who underwent a unique spinal operation two days ago, appears on the road to recovery.

"There is good hope Cato will recover the use of his hind legs," Dr. Jules Hardy, head of the medical team that performed the major surgery, said Thursday.

Cato was returned early Tuesday to the winter quarters of his owner, Desire Aerts, a Belgian-born zoo keeper. In summer, Cato is on view at the children's zoo in Lafontaine Park, and he is a frequent guest on a local French-language television program for children.

UNDER SEDATION
The 230-pound pet lion is still under sedation to prevent him disturbing the dressings, and is being fed intravenously.

Dr. Hardy hopes to remove stitches from the surgery in 10 days.

Cato's ailment was described as a "classic case of paraplegia," or hind leg paralysis.
Cato, valued at $10,000 by his owner, was brought to the hospital's goods entrance in a cage. He was given a sleeping pill, then anesthesia so that a special X-ray examination could be carried out.

The doctors also took an electrocardiogram, a measurement of the heart action, which they believe is the first ever taken of a lion.

"We treated the lion exactly as we would treat a man in the same situation," said Dr.
Allan Wigser.
He said the medical team performed the job without fee
"as a unique experience, and to help a beautiful animal."

Whitehorse Shy of Snow

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) - Lack of snow threatens the success of the annual Yukon Sourdough Rendezvous, an annual Whitehorse winter carnival.

Dog team races, snowshoe competitions, skiing and other winter sports are scheduled, and directors admit they are considering use of an artificial snow machine for the three-day event Feb. 26 to 28.

Whitehorse is about 2,000 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Pussy Can Go Out to Work To Earn Enough for Liver

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) - Remarks a cat gets tired of hearing:

"What good is a cat anyway? I never heard of one giving up its life for its master."

"Seat, Pomfrey! Get off the sofa this very moment."

"You hear a lot about watchdogs, but never anything about watchcats. If robbers ever came into our house, Pomfrey would probably lead them to the loot."

"Mama, mama, this time Pomfrey bit me - and I hardly even touched his old tail. I wasn't pulling it at all."

"He gives me the creeps - always rubbing against my legs right when I'm busy trying to cook a meal."

"Seat, Pomfrey! Get out of that chair this very moment."

"I wonder what he'd do if he saw a mouse? Probably run under the bed and hide."

"Daddy, the dog next door will sit up and beg for his food. Why don't Pomfrey? Is he just too dumb?"

"Oh, what a charming pussy cat. May I hold him? All cats are crazy about me. I guess they realize I simply adore them. Here, pussy, here, pussy!"

"Oh, what is that - a cat? Please put it in another room. I can't stand them. They make me so nervous."

"Maybe we ought to trade him in on a second-hand canary. At least a canary can sing."

"Seat, Pomfrey! You know you shouldn't get up on the bed."

"What do I care if he's on a hunger strike? If he's tired of beef kidney, let him go out and earn enough money to buy himself liver. I can't afford to."

"Why does he have to have his box in my bathroom? Every time I want to take a shower, I have to wait for him to come out."

"Wait until he's sound asleep on the television set, then turn on the Lassic program - real loud."

"If he really has nine lives, he'll live through all that."

"I wish he'd start leading a better one, right now."

"Tell Pomfrey to quit stomping around. Doesn't he realize I have a hangover this morning?"

"I wish he'd start leading a better one, right now."

Edmonton Man Charged

Guard Murdered, Jets Dynamited

EDMONTON (CP) — A German immigrant was charged with capital murder in the shooting of a night guard at an aircraft factory where two American jets were destroyed and a third heavily damaged by dynamite and fire.

Harry W. Hubach, 36, was remanded to Feb. 5 when he appeared in city police court on the charge.

He was arrested by a score of policemen who fanned out across the industrial airport after the body of guard Theron J. Richardson, 48, was found in a guard house at the main gate to Northwest Industries Limited.

FOUND IN TRUCK

Police said Hubach, who worked several weeks for the company about seven years ago before he left to accept a better job, was found in a truck six blocks from the southwest corner of the airfield.

The airfield, surrounded by residential districts, is 1½ miles from the downtown area. The factory is located at the field. An 18-year-old youth was held in custody on a charge of vagrancy after being found in the airport district. He was to appear in court at 2 p.m. MST today.

BOMB, GAGGED

C. D. Reekie, executive vice-president of Northwest Industries, said in an announcement that Mr. Richardson was bound and gagged and then shot.

"Dynamite and fuses were attached to two aircraft on the tarmac outside Hangar 14 and fires were set under them," Mr. Reekie said. "The two jet aircraft were almost completely destroyed and a third showed signs of fire damage."

TIED TO FOUR

"Until a complete assessment can be made of the damage the full extent of the losses can only be surmised."

Police said dynamite was attached to four jets but detonated only on three. "The charge set on another for some reason did not go off," they said.

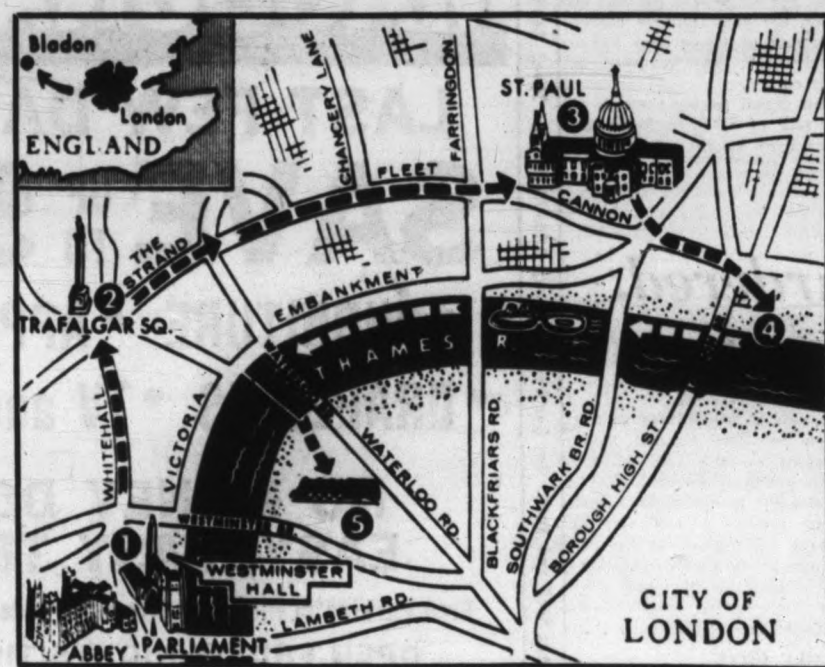

They said a rifle found near the guard house had been fired several times. Richardson, the father of two children, was a member of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners which patrolled the plant under contract to Northwest Industries.

The jets were among 112 being overhauled by Northwest

Funeral At a Glance

'Might Even Be An Overdraft'

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, christened and confirmed into the Church of England, confessed in later life that church attendance had never become one of his strong points.

In his book My Early Life, he wrote that in his youth he always had to go once a week to church. As a schoolboy at Harrow "there were three services every Sunday besides morning and evening prayers throughout the week."

"I accumulated in those years so fine a surplus in the Bank of Observances that I have been drawing confidently on it ever since . . .

"I have never made too close inquiries about the state of my account. It might well even be that I should find an overdraft."

The Church Times, an Anglican weekly, notes in its current issue that Churchill "had no claim, and made none, to be numbered among the great churchmen of England."

It blames the non-ecclesiastical atmosphere of Churchill's childhood at Blenheim Palace for his apparent indifference.

As a young man Churchill came under the influence of various secular philosophies and in his own words "passed through a violent and aggressive anti-religious phase which, had it lasted, might easily have made me a nuisance."

He was saved from this, he said, "by frequent contact with danger" and solved his metaphysical doubts by adopting "a system of believing whatever I wanted to believe while at the same time leaving reason to pursue unfettered whatever paths she was capable of treading."

Queen Pays Tribute To Britain's Hero

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth, in an unprecedented act of regal gratitude, stood before the coffin of Sir Winston Churchill in Westminster Hall Thursday night to pay her own tribute to the man who saved her country in the Second World War.

Never before in British History had a monarch paid homage at the bier of a commoner.

CUTS PROTOCOL

The Queen, who already had decreed a unique state funeral for Sir Winston, cut through the rigid protocol of royalty to honor her former prime minister.

As the Queen went to Westminster Hall, leaders of more than 100 countries, east and west of the Iron Curtain began to descend on London to pay their last respects to Churchill. Among them was Canada's Prime Minister Pearson along with Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker and High Commissioner to London Lionel Chevrier.

CALLS ON QUEEN

Shortly after his arrival Pearson called on Queen Elizabeth in Buckingham Palace to complete arrangements for signing the royal proclamation necessary to formally unveil the single red Maple Leaf design as Canada's official flag. (See Page 3.)

Among the arrivals, too, was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the wartime supreme allied commander, and Churchill's comrade-in-arms during the historic days of the Second World War.

PERSONAL GUEST

He came as a personal guest aboard the same plane which carried the official U.S. delegation—State Secretary Dean Rusk, Chief Justice Earl Warren and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, wife of a former U.S. ambassador to Britain.

For Eisenhower, it was a mission of particular sadness. Sir Winston was the last of the wartime Big Three whose directives he followed from Normandy to the heart of Germany.

Outside: 36 Below—Inside: Frightened Woman Freezing Boy Rapped in Vain

PUNNICHY, Sask. (CP) — An eight-year-old boy froze to death Wednesday night on the steps of a house he had left 3½ hours previously to start for home, RCMP said Thursday night.

Arthur Blair Dufour of Punnichy was discovered by George Belrose, 12, and Ellen Belrose, 14, about 9:30 as the brother and sister returned from a visit to the community of about 450 some 85 miles northeast of Regina. Temperatures dipped to 36 below zero Wednesday night.

RCMP said Mrs. Bella Belrose heard noises at the door and was aware of her dogs howling, but she refused to open the door because she was afraid a man might be trying to harm her.

Mrs. Belrose is separated from her husband.

RCMP Const. J. R. Nickel said the Dufour boy broke a window in the Belrose home as he attempted to gain entrance. Const. Nickel said the boy's knuckles were skinned where he had rapped repeatedly on the door.

Young Dufour went to the Belrose home with George Belrose directly after school Wednesday and also spent Tuesday night at the Belrose home.

After he was summoned with Dr. G. W. Sykes by George Belrose, Const. Nickel said he traced the path travelled by young Dufour about 400 yards in the direction of his home, about three-quarters of a mile away.

A track, leading back to the Belrose home, showed the boy

wandered off a travelled path several times within 300 yards of the house. He walked out of a boot at one point, Const. Nickel said. One foot was bare when the boy was found. The constable said an autopsy established death occurred about 50 minutes before the boy was discovered.

Robbery Suspects

Mountie Knifed, Juveniles Held

SALMON ARM (CP) — Four juveniles were arrested Thursday following the stabbing of RCMP Cpl. John Lawson, 33.

Police said Cpl. Lawson was stabbed in the back earlier in the day while transporting four juvenile robbery suspects here from Tappen, 10 miles north of this central interior community.

He was reported in good condition in hospital.

Police said two of the four juveniles were charged with breaking and entering and possession of stolen property. Police said the other two, one a girl, said they were 18 and appeared in an adult court where they were charged.

Cpl. Lawson rammed his patrol car into a snowbank and rolled out the door to escape further attack.

Four prisoners commandeered the police car but were captured minutes later by Cpl. Lawson's partner.

Strikes Stagger To a Conclusion

PARIS (Reuters) — Two days of staggered strikes by 2,500,000 state employees ended Thursday night when electricity and gas workers returned to their posts.

The strikers had protested the government's wage restraint policy, designed to bring economic stability.

Firing Squad Kills Terrorist

SAIGON — A firing squad executed a young Communist terrorist today in a public square sealed off by Vietnamese troops.

Shooting of Viet Cong agent Le Van Nguyen, 20, convicted of carrying a grenade and a bomb near Buddhist headquarters, was intended as a warning against further terrorism.

It was also the first act carried out by the new government set up by Lieut. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and headed by Harvard-educated economist Nguyen Xuan Oanh as acting prime minister.

In the city of Hue, 400 miles north, students demanded the recall of U.S. ambassador Maxwell Taylor, and also demanded that the U.S. aid program be revised to prevent "American interference" in South Viet Nam's internal affairs.

CONFIDENT

In Washington, however, White House and state department spokesmen declared that President Johnson had "full confidence" in Mr. Taylor and intended to keep him in his South Viet Nam post.

Other developments:

• Bodies of two U.S. soldiers, missing since they went fishing Saturday with two companions, were found shot in a bay. Bodies of the others had already been recovered.

• The Roman Catholic community in Saigon warned its followers to be on guard against a new outburst of religious warfare, recalling riots less than a year ago under Buddhist pressure.

• High Korean government sources in Seoul said the latest government coup in Saigon would not affect South Korea's decision to send 2,000 non-combat troops to South Viet Nam. They believed Gen. Khanh's new emergence as strongman could lead the embattled nation to political stability.

About Missing Mafia Boss

Dorion Orders Mystery Letter Filed

MONTREAL (CP) — Chief Justice Frederic Dorion ordered again Thursday that a mystery letter about a missing Mafia boss be filed with the inquiry he heads.

The letter is a vital piece of evidence in the testimony of Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay. Denis is alleged to have offered a $20,000 bribe to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

Denis told the inquiry that the letter was written to Liberal MP Guy Rouleau by Raymond Daoust, a lawyer for Joseph (Bananas) Bonanno, a Mafia figure who left Canada July 30 after a vain attempt to gain Canadian citizenship.

Denis said he was shown this "personal and confidential" letter July 11 or 12 by Mr. Rouleau, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson. The letter concerned Mr. Daoust's request to Mr. Tremblay for bail for Bonanno, he said.

Denis said this letter prompted him to summon Mr. Lamontagne to Ottawa July 14 on short notice to discuss the Bonanno case.

Mr. Lamontagne has said while there was discussion of the Bonanno case the evening of July 14, Denis had offered him $20,000 to agree to the release on bail of Lucien Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on conspiracy charges in a huge dope-smuggling racket.

Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the Canadian government in the Bonanno case and for the U.S. government in the Rivard extradition hearings.

Yves Fortier, counsel for Mr. Lamontagne, suggested before the inquiry Dec. 23 the mystery letter doesn't exist and that the bid for bail for Bonanno wasn't made by letter until July 16, two days after Denis called Mr. Lamontagne to Ottawa.

Mr. Tremblay testified Dec. 23.

Medley Measures Musician's Mettle

NEW ORLEANS — One of the strangest concerts in the annals of music was played by jazz trumpeter Muggsy Spanier in a hospital this week.

Muggsy, 55, was flat on his back with a long hollow tube running up the vein of one arm all the way to his heart. While surgeons withdrew blood samples to check the pressures around the heart and lungs, Muggsy tore off The Saints Go Marching In and slid into a medley of ancient Dixieland pieces.

He was undergoing a test to see just how much of a strain playing the trumpet really puts on his heart. The result may tell whether the musician is through as a jazz trumpet man. He collapsed with chest pains seven months ago in Detroit.

Clinic Spokesman Says:

Intimacy, Sense
Medicare Need

NANAIMO — The business manager for a clinic of nine Nanaimo doctors says any pre-paid government medical scheme must feature a much more intimate knowledge and sense of responsibility by the patient toward his own medical care.

A. W. Gascoyne of the Hall-Giovando clinic catalogued for the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce Wednesday the three main reservations of the medical profession against medicare in B.C.

1. There are not nearly enough doctors to put the recommendations of the Hall Royal Commission into effect. There is an urgent need to train more doctors. Additional medical schools should get top priority.

2. Patients should be free to choose doctors and their own methods of payment.

Mental Clinic

Low Pay
'Cools' Recruits

NANAIMO — James Wilson, outgoing president of the Nanaimo branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, told members of the branch in his annual report low salaries discourage applications by social workers and psychologists at the Central Vancouver Island Mental Health Clinic.

"These positions must be filled to enable the clinic to function adequately," he said.

"It is already apparent there will have to be an increase in the existing staff due to the considerable interest and response shown in the community."

Dr. S. E. Jensen, a psychiatrist, arrived in July to become director of the mental health clinic.

Mr. Wilson announced Wednesday Mrs. Dorothy Barford is resigning as administrator of the White Cross Centre.

Incoming president of the Nanaimo CMHA branch is Dr. A. S. Hourston.

3. As they are discovering in England, government-sponsored medicare brings over-utilization.

"Even if we had all the doctors we should have, there would have to be some control on patients seeking medical advice at the drop of a hat when it is not needed," Mr. Gascoyne said.

"The doctor wishes to maintain forever the closest possible contract with his patient, a personal relationship without which he can't adequately service him."

"Any medical scheme is bound to interfere with that relationship."

TWO YEARS' STUDY

He assured the audience he was not speaking for anybody, but on the basis of two years' first-hand study of the economics of medicine.

He said medicare generally means comprehensive government-sponsored medical service financed by universal taxation, and available to everybody, regardless of means.

Mr. Gascoyne said $2 per cent of the B.C. population is already covered by insurance plans, most of which resemble the non-profit MSA.

He said the B.C. Medical Association endorsed the type scheme offering the patient a choice of coverage.

76,400 IN B.C.

He said 76,400 persons in B.C. are covered by the organization of the Social Assistance Medical Service. It is estimated medical services to these people cost $4,000,000 annually.

The provincial government, through the SAMS pays for 45 per cent of those services.

"A fact that ought to be known," he said, "is that the doctors lose the rest by default."

He emphasized that doctors do other work on a similar basis, that is, attend persons for reduced fees or no fees at all.

"No one has ever been refused medical treatment who has asked for it. But we know there are persons who need medical attention, but are reluctant to seek it because they know they can't afford it."

Fugitives Surrender

NANAIMO — Two Brannan Lake School prisoners who escaped Tuesday night surrendered themselves to Victoria police at 2 a.m. Thursday.

The sixteen-year-olds were returned to the school later Thursday. Other prisoners tried the same thing Wednesday night but were apprehended within half an hour.

40 Beds Proposal

Chronic Hospital
Eyed at Duncan

DUNCAN — The King's Daughters' Hospital board decided to prepare a brief for the architects so plans can be drawn for a 40-bed chronic care hospital adjacent to the planned $3,600,000 Cowichan District Hospital.

The chronic-care unit was approved in principle by the government in December, and its cost has been estimated at $280,000.

TENDER OPENING

King's Daughters' Hospital administrator Ken Noton said Cowichan District Hospital will be opened here Feb. 26.

The board appointed J. Cave from Vancouver consultant on purchasing furniture and sundry equipment for the new hospital. Three more groups have come forward to sponsor rooms in the acute hospital.

Masonic Temple Lodge 33 and the Shriners will sponsor a private room each, and the Duncan Soroptimist Club, two small waiting rooms. Mr. Noton said a complete list of such groups will be prepared.

At the recent meeting of the medical staff, Dr. R. F. Stanley was elected president; Dr. W. C. B. James, vice president, and Dr. D. Gunn, secretary.

Mr. Noton said the hospital board reappointed the entire medical staff, including 15 active, two associate and nine consulting members, and three medical doctors on the courtesy staff.

The newest appointee to the consulting medical staff is Dr. R. T. Hosie of Victoria.

The Cowichan District Hospital Association will have its annual meeting Feb. 24 in the Cowichan Agricultural Hall at 8 p.m.

The term of one of the 12 directors, Steve Saunders, a City of Duncan appointee, will expire and a new director will be appointed at that time.

Reappointed by the councils of the city of Duncan and North Cowichan municipality to the hospital board were Ald. Jim Saunders and Coun. Elaine Dobbly.

The representative of the two hospital auxiliaries, Mrs. Harry Chadwick was also reappointed to the board.

At a recent executive meeting of the Cowichan-Newcastle-Gulf Islands Health Council, it was decided to review chronic hospital matters on a broad basis and to investigate steps to improve the pathological service at the hospitals in the four areas.

The hospitals are: King's Daughters', Lady Minto, Chehalis and Ladysmith Hospitals.

The next regular meeting of the CNI health council has been slated for February.

NO STAFF PROBLEMS

The hospital board here also was told by Matron A. Jennings there are no staff problems at the King's Daughters' Hospital; learned that members of the nursing staff will continue to attend special courses at Vancouver and at Nanaimo: added to the proposal to switch the main meal at the hospital here from noon to evening, starting Feb. 8, and was informed that the senior hospital women's auxiliary in the past two months has given $760 worth of various equipment to the King's Daughters' Hospital.

'Ballot Box Authority' Created New District

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the legislature Thursday night that he acted "by the authority of the ballot box" in creating a new district municipality at Campbell River.

The minister admitted that there was a "peculiar situation not covered by the Municipal Act" in the Dec. 12 vote that led to incorporation of the village of Campbell River and Willow Point.

'FULL DISCLOSURE'

But he said there had been "a full disclosure" of the circumstances to the people of the area before the vote was taken.

He was answering charges made on the floor of the House Wednesday by Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) who said the Dec. 12 vote was illegal because there was no authority in the Municipal Act to cover the minister's action.

POLITICAL MOTIVES

Mr. Campbell said the Liberal member was acting out of motives that were "100 per cent political."

The authority of the ballot box under which he acted in creating the new district municipality, said Mr. Campbell, was a total vote for the area 1,441 in favor of incorporation and 711 against.

66.9 PER CENT

That is a 66.9 per cent vote in favor, he told the House.

But the minister said he promised the people of the area that if any of the individual districts opposed the incorporation move they would be left out.

NEW VOTE FEB. 6

Oyster River was excluded and two other districts where the result was not conclusive—North Campbell River and Quinsam—are scheduled to hold a second vote Feb. 6.

Mr. Macfarlane Wednesday asked the legislature to stop this vote because it too would be illegal.

In the area where the new municipality was created last month, Mr. Campbell told the house, the vote Dec. 12 was 79 per cent in favor of incorporation.

REPEATED CHARGE

Mr. Macfarlane repeated his previous charge that there was "nothing in the act to authorize what you did."

The exchange resulted in the first serious disagreement of the session and speaker William Murray was forced to warn all members he would tolerate no further interruptions.

WASN'T WORRIED

The debate, at times stormy and often confusing to members, was topped by the comment of Harry McKay (L—Fernie).

He told Mr. Campbell: "I wasn't worried about it until I heard you explain it."

Port Alberni
Wins Praise

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell praised residents of Port Alberni in the legislature Thursday night for putting "wider interests first" last fall in voting for amalgamation with Alberni.

Shack Areas to Vanish
As Model Towns Emerge

Shack towns will disappear forever from North Vancouver Island with new model towns being carved out of the wilderness, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell told the House Thursday night.

The minister said the new towns will be "created, financed and controlled" by the people who live in them, with the provincial government keeping "out of the picture."

The new towns will be well-balanced communities with industrial, commercial and residential tax base, he said.

The "awful society" of bunkhouse and company shacks will disappear for ever from the north end of the Island, Mr. Campbell told the house.

North Cowichan

Wheels Turning
For Recreation

NORTH COWICHAN — North Cowichan Recreation Commission Thursday night voted to select an architect for the Centennial project, an ice-skating arena; decided on Pioneer Park as the location for a swimming pool, and made plans to invite Duncan and "the immediate unorganized areas" to attend its meetings.

COMMITTEE

The commission appointed a three-man committee to select the architect for the skating arena, subject to approval of the full recreation commission and later of the North Cowichan council.

Committee consists of Commissioner Jack Efford, chairman, Jack Gallagher and Baden Millard.

Proposed site of the arena is near Fuller's Lake Park, on 40 acres of municipality-owned land.

Estimated cost is $215,000; approximate size is 33,000 square feet, with seats for 1,000 persons, preferably at one side of the building. There are to be dressing rooms, catering facilities and perhaps a banquet room.

Pioneer Park was chosen as the site of the swimming pool proposed by the Duncan Rotary Club. The commission is in favor of North Cowichan municipality paying 50 per cent of the construction cost and the same percentage of the operations costs.

$100,000 POOL

Total cost of the pool at one time was estimated at $100,000, of which the Rotary Club is to pay the initial $25,000.

The commission voted to ask representatives of Duncan and nearby areas to attend meetings to tackle recreational problems.

Nanaimo.

Pollution

'B.C.
Must Take Steps'

The provincial government will have to take steps to solve the air pollution problem in the Alberni Valley, Alberni MLA John Squire told the legislature Thursday night.

He spoke of a recent press release which stated that the Alberni Valley has the highest percentage of respiratory diseases in B.C., and told the House that "this is 15,000 people we're talking about."

'SERIOUS MATTER'

"This is a serious matter and there's got to be some action on the part of the provincial government," said the NDP member.

Mr. Squire said the black dirt which can be seen on the sidewalks of Port Alberni reminds him of his childhood days in Nanaimo when the coal mines were in operation. "The same dirty, filthy black on those sidewalks."

WON'T WAIT

"We need something done and I realize it can't be done overnight. But I assure you 15,000 people are not prepared to wait for a four-year study," the Alberni member told the House.

He lashed out at the fees which are being charged by large companies for commercial users of the logging roads at the northern end of Vancouver Island, and claimed that the companies wanted to charge bus companies $30 a trip to go over one of the roads.

LONG WAY AROUND

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell interjected at this point that the charge is $90 for a moving van.

Mr. Squire criticized the minister's handling of the amalgamation referendum coming up Feb. 6 at Campbell River. He said that approval by at least 60 per cent of the residents of the improvement district should be required before the merger takes place and that "if it doesn't go through this time, it'll be a long way around the clock before you get people in the mood again."

He made the shacktown charge at the last session of the legislature, and the minister said last night nobody has been able to successfully refute his charge.

He laid the blame for these communities partly on the companies, partly on the lack of transportation.

There are about seven of these new model towns coming up, said Mr. Campbell. He named only two, Gold River and Port McNeill.

NEW BUSINESSES

Port McNeill, he said, has acquired 26 new businesses owned by the people of the area and this has changed the social structure of the community for ever.

"It is no longer Rayonier land," said Mr. Campbell, "it is the people's land."

Court Fines

Duncan Men

DUNCAN — A $47 fine was assessed against Modeste Henry of Duncan for careless driving and driving without a driver's licence. Police said he lost control of his car and struck a parked bread truck on Trunk Road.

Court was told Henry had driven during the past two years without a driver's licence. Magistrate D. K. McAdam suspended his right to obtain one, for one year.

Careless driving cost C. R. Martin of Duncan $50. He was involved in an accident at Port Alberni Dec. 24. He told court his licence was under suspension for another offence at Nanaimo.
